eTable. Key Terms and Definitions

| Key Term                              | Definition                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Categorical Medicaid Eligibility      | Eligible for Medicaid coverage based on household income below state-based income threshold, typically determined by the family’s Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI). |
| Fee-for-service                       | Fee-for-service is also known as traditional Medicaid. This is where a provider is paid for each service that is provided to a beneficiary.         |
| Medicaid Managed Care                 | Managed care is where an organization is paid a set amount per beneficiary enrolled in their organization.                                  |
| Waiver                                | Waivers are a mechanism to target specific populations or diagnoses, with criteria that vary by state. Waivers can impose enrollment caps to control expenditures, and therefore many have waiting lists. |
|                                       | One example of a waiver is the 1915c waivers focus on Home and Community Based Services and are an area of focus for this project. There are other waivers, including 1115 waivers, which are innovations to the state Medicaid program. Waivers can be diagnosis based, for example children can enroll due to medical technology needs or due to complex behavior health needs. |
| Home and Community Based Services (HCBS) | HCBS provides opportunities for home or community services rather than institutional based. A range of services can be included from home health care and durable medical equipment. Services are often provided via 1915c waivers. |
| Katie Beckett Waiver                  | This waiver is also known by the name of the act that enabled the waiver, the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA). It is different from other waivers in that it has no enrollment caps. |
