Facile Synthesis of P(EDOT/Ani):PSS with Enhanced Heat Shielding Efficiency via Two-Stage Shot Growth

Chanil Park‡, Soeun Im‡, Wonseok Cho, Yunryeol Kim, and Jung Hyun Kim*

Department of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering, Yonsei University, Yeonsero 50, Seodaemun-gu, Seoul 120–749, Republic of Korea

*E-mail: jayhkim@yonsei.ac.kr

‡These authors contributed equally to this work.

Figure S1 UV-vis-NIR transmittance of P(EDOT/Ani):PSS film, PEDOT:PSS film, and PAni:PSS film with the same transmittance, 60% at 550 nm wavelength.
Figure S2 FT-IR spectra of P(EDOT/Ani):PSS for various time intervals of aniline monomer addition.
Figure S3 Transmittance spectra variation of the P(EDOT/Ani):PSS film after durability test: (a) Ultraviolet resistance test (254 nm UV radiation for 250 h), (b) high-temperature test (85 °C) for 250 hours, (c) high-temperature and humidity test (85 °C / 85%) for 250 h.