Abstract.
This article examines the involvement of citizens who are limited by the election mechanism, namely Law Number 7 of 2017 concerning General Elections which regulates the 2019 Election, the regulation regulates the provision of ballots for only 2% (two percent) of the DPT for each TPS, while the DPT as the reference, there are still problems in the form of anomalous data, large voter participation resulting in a shortage of ballots during the election. The research methodology used is in the form of qualitative research and combines a sociological juridical approach, this research area is in Riau Province using primary data. The results of this study indicate that there is a shortage of ballot papers, due to the large number of voter participation in the election, but not registered on the DPT or DPTb, many voters go to polling stations using only electronic ID cards or other identities, these voters who experience a shortage of ballots and cannot vote, the solution to overcome this problem is to increase socialization so that voters register in the election and do not lose their right to vote, as well as improve the accuracy of DPT data collection.

1. Introduction

The 2019 general elections are held simultaneously, namely the holding of presidential and vice presidential elections as well as the election of legislative members in the form of House of Representatives (Dewan Perwakilan Rakyat/DPR), Regional Representative Council (Dewan Perwakilan Daerah/DPD), Regional People’s Representative Assembly (Dewan Perwakilan Rakyat Daerah/DPRD), Regency/City which will also determine the quality of government and government policies (1); (2) which are in the process or results must be accountable (3); (4). The implementation of the 2019 Election is based on Law Number 7 of 2017 concerning General Elections (hereinafter referred to as the Election Law), while other technical provisions are described in KPU Regulations, Bawaslu Regulations and DKPP Regulations.
ICASI

States that, as ballots are the primary mechanism in modern liberal democracies, guaranteeing its security affects the validity of votes (5). Based on Article 344 (1) and (2) of the Election Law, paragraph (1) states “Procurement of ballots is carried out domestically by prioritizing print capacity that is in accordance with the needs of ballot papers and prints of good quality”, and paragraph (2) states “The number of ballots printed is the same as the number of permanent voters plus 2% (two percent) of the number of permanent voters as reserves, which is determined by a KPU decision”. Provisions for limiting the number of backup ballots based on the number of Permanent Voters List (Daftar Pemilih Tetap/DPT) have been regulated in the Election Law (6); (7), but problems arise in implementation, that in the 2019 election the voter participation rate is high, but on the other hand there are still anomalous voter data, due to inaccuracy (8). The DPT was used in Riau Province in the 2019 Election. As the organizer of the KPUD, you must be responsible for saving the citizens’ right to vote as regulated in the constitution (9).

According to ANTARA news, “a number of residents complained that they could not vote because they had run out of ballots. One of them happened at TPS 18, Binawidya Tampan Village, Pekanbaru,” (https://pemilu.antaranews.com/news/834201/chairman-kpu-provinsi-riau-no-ada-kekurangan-surat-voice-pemilu accessed on 29 October 2019 at 01.14 WIB). This statement was explained by Nugroho Noto Susanto (KPU Riau), “that his party admitted that they could not do much. This includes providing concrete solutions. Because from the reports received, most of the people who protest are special voters lists (DPK) that use electronic ID cards and sukets” (https://www.jawapos.com/jpg-today/17/04/2019/surat-voice-less-kpu-riau-tak-can-do-much/ accessed on October 29, 2019, at 01.18 WIB). From the data above, researchers are interested in conducting in-depth research regarding the DPT Anomaly and its implications for the availability of ballots in the 2019 elections in Riau Province. The implementation of the provision of ballots and the availability of backup ballots in the 2019 Election in Riau Province are the points that want to be explained.

2. Literature Review

Based on “Constitutional Court Decision No. 102/PUU-VII/2009 dated July 6, 2009 stipulates that citizens who are not registered in the voter list can exercise their right to vote by using their resident identity (Identification Card, Family Card, Passport)”. The Constitutional Court’s decision is an indicator, there are voters who cannot use their voting rights in the general election, because they are not registered with the DPT, so special treatment is needed to protect their voting rights (10), the research focuses on the implementation of the Pekanbaru City Regional Head Election in 2017, you can still use your ID card or passport for the conditions to be able to vote, but there are factors that have not been completed yet, you can use a certificate in the Pekanbaru City Election.

In the presidential election, it was found that the high use of ID cards and passports to vote was a strengthening of political rights as a form of Indonesia being a state of law and democracy (11); (12). 102/PUU-VII/2009 accommodates the use of ID cards, implications for the availability of ballots during voting. The use of policy implementation theory regarding supervision at the stage of updating voter data (DPT) in the 2010 Medan City Election, has not been carried out optimally, when viewed from the fact that there are still unregistered voters in the DPT due to the performance of Panwaslu which is limited to human resources, regulations, and working time. According to Susanto (13), there are problems with updating DPT.

During the verification of the voter list, this provision has legal consequences, such as in the case of “Providing incorrect information about oneself or another person regarding a matter required to fill out the voter list, is a criminal offense for a person who intentionally causes another person to lose their rights.” vote"(14), due to an error in the verification of the voter list, it is possible for the public not to be registered in the DPT. Loss of opportunity to vote in elections can be linked to the practice of non-voting behavior, “generally manifested in various forms. First, people who do not attend the polling station as a protest against the implementation of the election and the existing political system; Second, people who attend the polling station but do not use their right to vote correctly by stabbing more than one picture. The three people who exercise their right to vote by stabbing the white part of the ballot card,” (15).

3. Methodology

This article combines qualitative research methods with a sociological juridical approach, as in the regulation of the Election Law which limits the number of ballots in each polling station based on the DPT which still has validation issues and juxtaposes it with the law that is practiced in the community. This research is in Riau Province, which at the time of the 2019 Election, still left anomalous data on the DPT. The resource persons in this study were KPU Riau, Bawaslu Riau and Election Observers. The data sources are primary data from Riau KPU, Riau Bawaslu and election observers, secondary data from literature books and scientific journals, and tertiary data to support primary and secondary data. The technique of obtaining data is in the form of observation, structured interviews and literature review, while for data analysis it is descriptive qualitative with the method of drawing conclusions with the inductive method.

4. Results and Discussion

The election was held on Wednesday, April 17 2019, the implementation of the election went well, but there were obstacles, one of which was the procurement of ballots, specifically in Riau Province, there were reports that stated that there were people on voting day who could not use their voting rights, The Election Law only gives the KPU the right to provide 2% of the backup ballots from all DPT. Voters who cannot use their voting rights are voters who are not registered in the DPT, but voters who are included in the additional voter list and a solution to overcome the problem that the 2% requirement for ballots must be enlarged by continuing to carry out strict supervision so that misuse of ballots does not occur.

4.1. Implementation of Ballots

The DPT problem is always unresolved before the General Election and Regional Head Elections, including in the 2019 Election, with regard to the DPT being regulated in the Election Law, KPU Regulations and Bawaslu Regulations. In the provisions of Article 12 letters e and f of the Election Law, KPU in the task of “receiving voter lists from the provincial KPU, updating voter data based on the latest election data by taking into account the population data prepared and submitted by the Government and stipulating it as a voter list. In addition to these duties, the KPU also has the obligation to carry out updating and maintaining voter data on an ongoing basis by paying attention to population data. Judging from the flow of voter list recapitulation, starting with the District Election Committee (PPK) which receives and submits the voter list to Regency/Municipal KPU (Election Law Article 53 Paragraph (1) letter b). PPK also has an obligation in the form of PPK to assist KPU, Provincial KPU, and Regency/Municipal KPU in updating voter data, provisional voter lists, and permanent voter lists (Election Law Article 53 Paragraph (3) letter a).

Before being announced by the PPK, there was a Voting Committee (PPS) in charge of dealing with the final voter list, namely; first, to announce the provisional voter list; second, receiving input from the public regarding the provisional voter list; third, make improvements and announce the results of the revision of the temporary voter list; fourth, announce the final voter list and report to Regency/Municipal KPU through PPK.
PPS has obligations related to the Voter List, in the form of assisting KPU, Provincial KPU, Regency/Municipal KPU, and PPK in updating voter data, provisional voter lists, revised voter lists, and permanent voter lists and submitting voter lists to PPK. (Article 58 of the Election Law, letters a and b).

The process of updating the voter list is supervised by Bawaslu, according to Article 93 letter d number 1 of the Election Law as follows: "supervising the implementation of the stages of Election Administration, which consists of: updating voter data and determining the provisional voter list as well as the permanent voter list". The 2019 Election has stages which are a series of Election processes, the Stages of Election Implementation include; first, planning programs and budgets as well as drafting regulations for implementing elections; second, updating voter data and compiling voter lists; third, the determination of election participants; fourth, determination of the number of seats and determination of electoral districts; fifth, the nomination of President and vice president as well as members of DPR, DPD, Provincial DPRD, and Regency/Municipal DPRD; sixth, the election campaign period; seventh, quiet period; eighth, voting and counting of votes; ninth, determination of election results; and tenth, taking the oath/promise of the President and Vice President as well as members of the DPR, DPD, Provincial DPRD, and Regency/Municipal DPRD.

The problem with ballot papers is not only related to invalid DPT, but one of them is related to the use of the right to vote for citizens who are 17 (seventeen) years old or more, are married, or have been married, have the right to vote who have not been registered in the DPT. Based on Article 344 of the Election Law, regarding ballots as follows: first, the procurement of ballots is carried out domestically by prioritizing print capacity that is in accordance with the needs of ballot papers and prints of good quality; secondly, the number of ballots printed is equal to the number of permanent voters plus 2% (two percent) of the number of permanent voters as reserves, which is determined by KPU's decision; third, in addition to stipulating the printing of ballot papers as referred to in paragraph (2), KPU shall determine the number of ballots for re-voting; Fourth, the number of ballots as referred to in paragraph (3) is determined by the KPU for each electoral district as many as 1,000 (one thousand) re-voting ballots that are given a special mark, each ballot for a Candidate Pair, a member of DPR, DPD, Provincial DPRD, and district/city DPRD.

Referring to Article 350 of the Election Law, that first, the maximum number of voters for each TPS is 500 (five hundred) people; secondly, the TPS as referred to in paragraph (1) is located in an easily accessible place, including by persons with disabilities, does not combine villages, and pays attention to geographical aspects and ensures that every voter can cast his/her vote directly, freely and confidentially; third, the number of ballots in each TPS is equal to the number of voters listed in the final voter list and additional voter lists plus 2% (two percent) of the permanent voter list as a reserve; fourth, the use of backup ballots as referred to in paragraph (3) is made an official report; fifth, further provisions regarding the number, location, form, arrangement. The location of the TPS as referred to in paragraph (2) and the format of the official report as referred to in paragraph (4) shall be regulated by KPU Regulation.

The problem of lack of ballots, based on an interview with the Head of KPU Riau Province, Mr. Ilham Yasir, LL.M, that once in Indonesia regarding the printing of ballots was not restricted, but in several general elections after the Reformation it was deemed necessary to limit the number of ballots to obtain guarantees. to the ballot. The Election Law limits the reserve ballot papers at each polling station to only 2%. However, during the general election, several obstacles were found which led to the implementation of re-voting and follow-up elections. Based on the description above, that in Riau Province, 30 (thirty) TPS and 32 (thirty-two) TPS in 10 (ten) regencies/cities carry out re-voting and follow-up elections (PSL). follow-up elections. Meanwhile, according to the Riau Province Bawaslu Commissioner, Mr. Neil Antariksa, S.H., M.H. that what Bawaslu recommends is more than 132 (one hundred and thirty-two) TPS, but which can be implemented by the KPU is only 62 (sixty-two) for PSU and PSL, as follows:

A total of 30 (thirty) TPS re-voting will be carried out and for the Continuation Election, it will be held at 32 (thirty-two) TPS throughout Riau Province which are the object of Bawaslu's supervision (16). Based on the distribution of the data above, there are 2 (two) regencies/cities that experienced a shortage of ballots, namely Kampar Regency and Pekanbaru City.
accompanied by the active role of voters to check personal data in the DPT or in the DPK, the problem of lack of ballots will always occur if before the election day the organizer does not have a definite DPT, and there is a limitation on the number of ballots for each polling station based on the DPT.

4.2. Solutions to Overcome the Problem of Limited Voice Mail

It takes socialization to voters to register themselves, if they are not registered as voters, because there are many unregistered voters who cannot use their right to vote during elections, even though the Constitutional Court Decision provides space for voters to use ID cards, Family Cards or Passports to vote, but the availability of letters reserve votes at each polling station are only 2% of the registered DPT. KPUD Riau as the organizer must be able to carry out the process of updating voter data in order to improve the accuracy of the DPT and carry out the data verification process on an ongoing basis. If major changes cannot be made in the election mechanism, it is necessary to increase the number of backup ballots, but still with very strict supervision, as well as an integrated data collection mechanism and obtain valid DPT data (16) which sometimes become the basis for filing a dispute over election results at the Constitutional Court (17) and does not generate anomalous data (no multiple voters and in accordance with factual conditions) (18) ahead of the election, which can eliminate constitutional rights as a voters(19). The proposed idea of reforming the electoral system must still start with changes to regulations regarding elections, therefore political will is needed from the state to implement it.

5. Conclusion

Based on research conducted by the Research Team, it was concluded that the 2019 General Election was going well, but there was a shortage of ballot papers in Kampar Regency and Pekanbaru City, so that a re-voting (PSU) or a follow-up election (PSL) was carried out based on recommendations from Bawaslu. Riau Province. Furthermore, it is necessary to socialize voters to register if they are not registered in the DPT, and the influence of DPT anomalous data before the election also determines whether or not citizens’ voting rights are protected.
