Erratum

EROs found behind lensing clusters

I. Stellar populations and dust properties of optical dropout EROs and comparison with related objects

D. Schaerer\textsuperscript{1,2}, A. Hempel\textsuperscript{1}, E. Egami\textsuperscript{3}, R. Pelló\textsuperscript{2}, J. Richard\textsuperscript{2,4}, J.-F. Le Borgne\textsuperscript{2}, J.-P. Kneib\textsuperscript{5}, M. Wise\textsuperscript{6}, and F. Boone\textsuperscript{7}

\textsuperscript{1} Geneva Observatory, University of Geneva, 51, chemin des Maillettes, 1290 Sauverny, Switzerland
e-mail: [daniel.schaerer;angela.hempel]@obs.unige.ch
\textsuperscript{2} Observatoire Midi-Pyrénées, Laboratoire d’Astrophysique, UMR 5572, 14 Avenue E.Belin, 31400 Toulouse, France
\textsuperscript{3} Steward Observatory, University of Arizona, 933 North Cherry Street, Tucson, AZ 85721, USA
\textsuperscript{4} Caltech Astronomy, MC105-24, Pasadena, CA 91125, USA
\textsuperscript{5} OAMP, Laboratoire d’Astrophysique de Marseille, UMR 6110 traverse du Siphon, 13012 Marseille, France
\textsuperscript{6} Astronomical Institute Anton Pannekoek, Kruislaan 403, 1098 SJ Amsterdam, The Netherlands
\textsuperscript{7} Observatoire de Paris, LERMA, 61 Av. de l’Observatoire, 75014 Paris, France

The stellar masses derived from the SED fits using \textit{Hyperz} and given in Tables 5–8 are overestimated by a factor $1 + z$. Stellar masses derived using Eq. (1) and other quantities are not affected by this error.

Key words. galaxies: high-redshift – cosmology: early Universe – galaxies: evolution – galaxies: starburst – infrared: galaxies – errata, addenda

A&A 469, 47–60 (2007), DOI: 10.1051/0004-6361:20077127e

Article published by EDP Sciences and available at http://www.aanda.org or http://dx.doi.org/10.1051/0004-6361:20077127e