Supplementary information

For

Far-red pentamethine cyanine dyes as fluorescent probes for detection of serum albumins

D. Aristova¹, G. Volynets¹, S. Chernii¹, M. Losytskyy¹, A. Balanda¹, Yu. Slominski², A. Mokhir³,
S. Yarmoluk¹, V. Kovalska¹⁴

¹Institute of Molecular Biology and Genetics NASU, 150 Zabolotnogo St., 03143 Kyiv, Ukraine
²Institute of Organic Chemistry NASU, 5 Murmans’ka St., 02094 Kyiv, Ukraine
³Organic Chemistry II, Friedrich-Alexander-University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, Nikolaus-Fiebiger-Str. 10, 91058 Erlangen, Germany
⁴Scientific Services Company Otava Ltd, 150 Zabolotnogo St., 03143 Kyiv, Ukraine
Figure S1 a. The absorption spectra of the studied dyes (1μM) in acetonitrile.

Figure S1 b. The absorption spectra of the studied dyes (1μM) in DMSO.
Figure S1 c. The absorption spectra of the studied dyes (1μM) in MeOH.
Figure S2 a. The absorption spectra of the studied cyanine dyes (10µM) in 0.05 M phosphate buffer (pH 6.0).

Figure S2 b. The absorption spectra of the studied cyanine dyes (10µM) in 0.05 M Tris-HCl buffer (pH 9.0).