Introduction to the ICF model in pediatrics, link to open-access video:

https://youtu.be/4kA-cRFn5Lo

This video briefly introduces the ICF model, its dimensions and components. A practical case scenario illustrates how to navigate the model in a regular clinical situation. Finally, it highlights the importance of adopting the ICF model in pediatrics to ensure the application of the conventions of people with disabilities and the rights of children.

Table S1. ICF Core Sets for children and youth with CP complete list with user instructions [22].

ICF CORE SETS FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH WITH CEREBRAL PALSY - USER INSTRUCTIONS

The purpose of the ICF Core Sets for children and youth (CY) with cerebral palsy (CP) is to describe the present child or youth’s level of functioning, along with facilitators and barriers that influence functioning. The ICF Core Sets for CY with CP can be applied in clinical, research, teaching and administration. Emphasis is on the child or youth’s performance of everyday activities at home, school and in the community.

There are five ICF Core Sets for CY with CP: the Comprehensive ICF Core Set, the Common Brief ICF Core Set, and the three Age-Specific Brief ICF Core Sets (0 to 6 years, 6≥ to <14, and 14≥ to 18 years of age). User instructions are provided to assist in determining how to select and use the Core Sets.

Step I – Selection of Type of ICF Core Set

The selection of the appropriate type of ICF Core Set – Comprehensive, Common Brief, or Age-Specific Brief – depends on the user’s intended purpose and the amount of information he or she requires to characterize the level of functioning.

- Comprehensive ICF Core Set for CY with CP: Used for a complete and detailed description of functioning in CY with CP aged 0 to 18 years. Due to the level of detail, this Core Set is useful in interdisciplinary assessments for which an exhaustive assessment can be distributed among team members from different professions.

- Common Brief ICF Core Set for CY with CP: Used to describe the most common areas of functioning in CY aged 0 to 18 years with CP. The Common Brief Core Set can be employed in regular clinical encounters where only a brief assessment is necessary, and in clinical and epidemiological research. This Core Set can be used by a single professional or an inter-disciplinary team. A key characteristic of the Common Brief Core Set is that it allows the description of the level of functioning of CY with CP over time, from birth to transition to adulthood. Therefore, this Core Set can be considered as a minimum for any “minimal data set” which describes CY with CP across their lifespan. Use of this Core Set by administrators, health planners, and CP registries would be expected.

- Age-Specific Brief ICF Core Set for CY with CP: Each of the age-specific sets includes the ICF categories of the Common Brief ICF Core Set in addition to ICF categories unique to each age-group: 0 to <6, 6≥ to <14 and 14≥ to 18 years of age. Each age-specific ICF Core Set describes the most common areas of functioning in CY with CP for the associated age-group. The Age-Specific ICF Core Sets can be applied in clinical or research context where additional detail is desirable in caring for or describing a particular age-group of CY with CP. These ICF Core Sets can be used by a single professional or an interdisciplinary team.

Step II - Description of Level of Functioning

Once the appropriate ICF Core Set is selected, the ICF categories that are contained in the ICF Core Set are used as a reference to guide users through the assessment process. Each ICF category has a definition with inclusion and exclusion criteria. (pediatric ICF manual) Professionals may use interviews (medical history), clinical examination, clinical tools, self or proxy-reported questionnaires, and/or technical investigations to collect information related to each ICF category. The selection of questionnaires and clinical tools is dependent on how well the content of the tools align with the ICF categories that are included in the Core Set. (For examples on how to select a tool using the ICF as a reference please see Schiariti et al.). Note: work is under way to identify a pool of measures that best represent the content of the five ICF Core Sets for CY with CP.

Step III - Rating the Degree of Functioning

Professionals may choose to summarize the information collected during the assessment process and create a functional profile of the child or youth with CP (e.g. Figure 2). For this purpose, ICF qualifiers must be assigned to each of the core set’s ICF categories. The ICF qualifiers represent a general ordinal scale ranging from 0=no problem to 4=complete problem (pediatric ICF manual). The ICF qualifiers describe the degree of impairment, limitation or restriction in each category within the component Body Structures, Body Functions, and Activity and Participation. Additionally, within the component Environmental Factors the ICF qualifiers describe barriers or facilitators, ranging from 0=no barrier/ facilitator to 4 complete barrier/facilitator, denoting facilitators with a “+“. The assignment of ICF qualifiers is made using clinical judgement and they should only be used as descriptors of the degree of functioning. They do not represent an assessment tool. We recommend clinicians working in multidisciplinary teams to discuss the assignment of ICF qualifiers before using the rating scale in clinical practice. We also recommend that users establish intrarater reliability before using the ICF qualifiers for research purposes.

Finally, as the component Personal Factors does not have ICF categories assigned, we also recommend adding to the functional profile the essential personal characteristics of the child or youth with CP that would have a positive or negative impact on Body Structures, Body Functions, Activity and Participation, and Environmental Factors. Personal Factors, such as preferences, positive attitudes, and other attributes can influence adherence to interventions; thus, they should be routinely addressed and considered by professionals.

It is note-worthy that the ICF Core Sets for CY with CP allow the description of both abilities and limitations in everyday functioning, along with facilitators and barriers that influence functioning. We believe that the inclusion of positive aspects (abilities, strengths and facilitators) when describing functioning is a significant contribution of the ICF Core Sets for CY with CP, encouraging professionals and families to share an optimistic approach to the functioning of CY with CP.

The five ICF Core Sets for CY with CP are provided below:

| Questions | ICF Categories |
|-----------|----------------|
| 1. If you think about your child as an individual, what personal characteristics are important about him/her? (Moderator provide an example) | PERSONAL FACTORS |
| 2. If you think about the daily activities, (Moderator provide an example, show pictures of activities) | ACTIVITIES & PARTICIPATION |
| a. What activities your child is able to do? | |
| b. What activities does your child find hard/difficult to do? | |

| b. What challenges or barriers does your child experience? | |
| 4. If you think about the body of your child, which body parts cause your child some difficulties, if any? (Moderator provide an example; may be a picture of the body and they can mark areas with an X) | BODY STRUCTURES |
5. If you think about the body of your child, what parts of his/her body do not work the way it supposes to, if any? (Moderator provide an example, may be a list from the ICF Core Sets then they can mark functions from the list)

6. Tell me about the biggest problems for you at the moment.

7. If people were looking into treatments for your child, what are the things you might hope to improve:

   a. In terms of their daily activities?
