The International Association of Lions Clubs

BY MELVIN JONES,
Secretary-General, Lions International

The International Association of Lions Clubs is a non-profit federation of locally autonomous non-political, non-sectarian, Lions Clubs composed of the leading business and professional men in each community. A Lions Club is generally classified as a «service club» and has from time to time been compared with other organizations falling within the same general classification. However, comparisons should be made not on the basis of form of organization, but rather on the basis of accomplishments. The Lions have created for themselves a field of endeavor vastly wider than that implied by the term «service», and in that field we believe they stand alone. Other organizations in the service club field hold luncheon and evening meetings, and the individual memberships in them may be held according to classification, but generally speaking their similarity to a Lions Club ends right there.

A Lions Club is a service club which lives up to its name by actually being of service to the community in which it is located. Where another luncheon club may feel it has done its duty by passing a resolution in favor of some particular thing, or in condemnation of something else, the Lions will take a good look at the problem or project which needs attention, thrash it out thoroughly, and then go into action.

Lions Clubs are known and esteemed throughout the world because of the number and importance of their benevolent activities. Each year their constructive activities reach a new high in number and scope — a result of the care with which the individual Lions Club are organized, membership selected, and activities planned and carried out.

Describing what Lionism seeks to do in the fewest possible words, it might be said that its fundamental purpose is to make each club’s home town, or community, a Better place in which to live. This objective automatically puts the Lions into everything that goes on around town. Lions duns are the only service clubs with a complete community activities program. They are interested in every opportunity for unselfish service to the community and, to this end, their activities are grouped under ten major headings:

- Agriculture
- Boys and Girls
- Citizenship and Patriotism
- Civic Improvements
- Community Betterment
- Education
- Health and Welfare
- Safety
- Sight Conservation and Blind United Nations
- United Nations

The greatest field of Lions’ endeavor is in connection with community betterment. By completing a total of 101,736 separate and distinct activities for the betterment of their individual communities during the 1949 fiscal year, the 7,815 Lions Clubs in 27 countries throughout the world proved again that they are indeed «The World’s Biggest Doers.»

Typical of Lions club activities in behalf of the community and its citizens are such diversified items as: promotion of better roads, airports and transportation facilities; City Beautiful, gardening and remodeling contests, clean-up, paint-up campaigns; school modernization; educational improvements; students contests; children’s safety; installation of playgrounds, recreational centers and community buildings; encouragement of school and municipal bands, dramatic classes, art contests and other cultural activities; obtaining new industries and commercial establishments for the town.

«The World’s Biggest Doers», a story of The Lions, by Robert J. Casey & W. A. S. Douglas, published (1949) by Wilcox & Follett, Chicago, Illinois, U.S.A.
In the welfare field, Lions clubs have been instrumental in building and equipping many hospitals, wards and clinics; securing iron lungs, X-ray equipment, examination apparatus, etc.; locating physicians in towns and areas needing them; improving public health departments; furnishing aid for needy persons, orphans, the aged, ill and blind.

Lions Clubs in agricultural communities cooperate intensively with the farm population to obtain maximum agricultural development, more efficient marketing facilities and better living conditions. They annually sponsor many County Fairs; harvest festivals; horse, livestock, poultry and home gardening shows, home canning campaigns and food conservation, and they also work closely with County agents, 4-H Clubs, Granges and other farm bodies.

Furthermore, Lions have assisted notably in all humanitarian causes, such as relief to stricken communities or areas, as well as giving support to such organizations as the Red Cross, March-of-Dimes, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and innumerable others. They cooperate fully in every Government undertaking of national interest.

During World War II, Lions Clubs served tirelessly on the "Home Front". They assisted the armed forces by every possible means and proved a powerful element in the United Nation's drive for Victory. Lions International has received official citations from the governments of the United States and Cuba in recognition and appreciation of the work of Lions Clubs.

The Lions have been especially prominent in the promotion of international friendship and cooperation, with a view to achieving lasting peace. As Lions are international in scope, they are likewise international in interests, particularly in the promotion of good will and understanding among nations. Because of the direct bearing which international good will has on world peace and security under which civilization progresses, the first Object of Lionism, as set forth in the Association's International Constitution, pledges the Lions Clubs to create and foster a spirit of généraux consideration among the peoples of the world, through a study of the problems of international relationships.

In furtherance of this Object, Lions International has worked very closely with the United Nations. In 1941, the Lions, at the invitation of the U.S. Department of State sent a representative to Washington, D.C., to participate in the "off-the-record discussions" of the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals, from which the Charter of the United Nations later came into being. The Lions also were represented at a meeting in Washington in February, 1945, to discuss the Bretton Woods Agreement. In the Spring of that same year the Lions played an important role in a consultative capacity to the U.S. delegation at the San Francisco Conference where the United Nations Charter was drafted. The effectiveness of the Lions' part in welding the solidarity of the U.S. consultant group during the Conference was publicly expressed by the late Secretary of State of the United States, the honorable Edward R. Stettinus. The Lions had representatives at the Paris Peace Conference in 1946, and at numerous subsequent United Nations meetings in Lake Success and Flushing, N.Y., Paris and Geneva. In March, 1947, Lions International was granted consultative status in the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations.

Every Lions Club has a United Nations committee and thus keeps abreast of United Nations happenings. The Committee sees to it that members are supplied with copies of the UN charter and that a reasonable number of regular club meetings are devoted to United Nations discussion. It also arranges for community observance of United Nations Day on October 21 of each year.

It was the Lions, incidentally, who first conceived the idea of this world-wide celebration. Back in February, 1946, the Lions Board of Directors, meeting in Havana, Cuba, adopted a resolution proposing that one day be set aside each year as a day of universal observance of peace. From this evolved what is now known as United Nations Day.

In many communities, this observance of United Nations Day has taken the form of a model Security Council meeting, or a panel discussion of the UN charter, to acquaint the community with the workings of the United Nations organization.

Much of the success and interest in this type of meeting is due to the efforts of a Lions International Past President, Fred W. Smith, who, in 1947, as chairman of a committee of Non-governmental Organizations Affiliated with the United Nations, drew up a model UN program. This program was sent to all Lions Clubs as well as to non-governmental organizations all over the world.

Closely correlated with Lionism's primary Object are the other five Objects of Lions Clubs:

1. To unite the members in the bonds of friendship, good fellowship and mutual understanding.
2. To promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship.
3. To take an active interest in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of the community.
4. To provide a forum for the full and free discussion of all matters of public interest, partisan politics and sectarian religion alone excepted.
5. To encourage efficiency and promote high ethical standards in business and professions; provided that no Club shall hold out as one of its objects financial benefits to its members.

Lionism therefore is not only a medium for spreading good will, for initiating beneficial policies and creating better relations between and within parties, communities and nations, but is also one of the most effective tools for the building of men. Lions clubs are incomparable for the aggressive type of public-spirited leadership they have developed. They are incomparable for the training in community, national, and international affairs which they are constantly giving their members, thus preparing them for greater service and greater, more intelligent participation in world affairs.

This high aspiration to serve, in the fullest sense of the meaning, has been the guiding light of Lionism through the thirty-three years of its phenomenal growth and expansion through 27 countries of the world. When Lions International was founded in 1917, there were just a few Lions Clubs, and hardly more than a handful of Lions. Today, with a total membership of 394,640 of the leading business and professional men of 7,815 communities, the Lions are the world's largest, most active, most useful and most representative service club organization.

The Lions have attracted men to them because they are « different ». They are different in their meetings, in their pep and spirit and their way of doing things. They are different in the way they run their clubs and their districts. And they are different in that each Lions Club maintains local autonomy, yet each is an integral part of a very efficient district organization and through that a unit in the closely coordinated International Association. Each Lions Club, therefore, is able to choose the specific activities which it will carry on, but it is also able to engage in activities of tremendous scope because, it is a part of a great international organization.

Each Lions Club is run on a strictly business basis. None of the money which Lions Clubs raise from their fund-raising projects goes into the administrative funds of the clubs. Each dollar collected is spent for the exact purpose for which it was raised. All Lions give generously of their time and talents to Lions work, for the Lions Club is truly a Service Club.

Lions believe wholeheartedly in their communities and their nation, and they back up their belief with action — with SERVICE. And this ideal of service provides a splendid vehicle through which man's highest purpose to his fellowman can be worked out. Lionism holds that service to humanity, service to others is, in the end, the law of civilization. It was « service » that lifted the national flags of Lionism to the sky, and it is service which will keep them there.
