Notes on Authors

Grzegorz Ekiert is Associate Professor of Government and Research Associate in the Center for European Studies at Harvard University. His most recent book is The State against Society: Political Crises and Their Aftermath in East Central Europe (Princeton University Press, 1996). He is currently completing two books (with Jan Kubik) on popular protest and democratic consolidation in East Central Europe.

David Goldfarb is a Ph.D. candidate in Comparative Literature at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York and teaches the Comparative Literature and Russian programs at Hunter College. He has published articles on Polish and Russian literature and cinema in Philosophy and Literature, Prooftexts, The Polish Review, and Slavic and East European Performance.

Pål Kolstø is Professor of Russian and East European Area Studies at the University of Oslo. He is the author of Russians in the Former Soviet Republics (London, 1995). He currently heads a research project on nation building integration in post-Soviet bicultural societies.

Maryjane Osa is Assistant Professor of Government and International Studies at the University of South Carolina. She is the author of "Ecclesiastical Reorganization and Political Culture: Religion and Politics in Poland," Polish Sociological Review 3 (III), 1995.

Bożena Shallcross is Assistant Professor in the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures at Indiana University.

Sven Spieker teaches in the department of Germanic, Slavic, and Semitic Studies at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Boris Tsilevich is Director of the non-profit Center for Educational and Social Research "Baltic Insight". He also works as a columnist in Latvian media, lectures at the Baltic-Russian University, and works as an advisor to the "Concord" faction in the Latvian parliament. He is the author of Vremia zhestkikh reshenii (Riga, 1993).

Andrzej Walicki is O'Neill Professor of History at the University of Notre Dame and a corresponding member of the Polish Academy of Sciences. He is an intellectual historian specializing in Russia and Central Europe. His most recent book is Marxism and the Leap to the Kingdom of Freedom: The Rise and Fall of the Communist Utopia (Stanford, Ca.: Stanford University Press, 1995).

© 1997 by the American Council of Learned Societies

East European Politics and Societies, Volume 11, No. 1, Winter 1997

from the SAGE Social Science Collections. All Rights Reserved.