An Appraisal on Curriculum of Islamic Learning in Higher Education with the Perspective of Paigham-e-Pakistan

Amir Hayat, and Muhammad Tariq Ramzan

To cite this article:

Hayat, Amir, Muhammad Tariq Ramzan. “An Appraisal of Curriculum of Islamic Learning in Higher Education in the Perspective of Paigham-e-Pakistan” Journal of Religious and Social Studies 1, no. 1 (2021): 33-52.
DOI: https://doi.org/10.53583/jrss03032021

Published online: 17 June 2021
Submit your article to JRSS
View this issue

Full Terms & Conditions of access and licensing can be found at:
http://ejrss.com/index.php/jrss/policies
AN APPRAISAL ON CURRICULUM OF ISLAMIC LEARNING IN HIGHER EDUCATION WITH THE PERSPECTIVE OF PAIGHAM-E-PAKISTAN

Amir Hayat¹, Muhammad Tariq Ramzan²

Abstract: Pakistan has been facing challenges of extremism and terrorism from the last two decades. It is important to find roots of extremism and violence in the society to formulate policies to combat the situation. Studies have shown that peace education plays vital role in bringing peace and harmony in the society. For this purpose it is important to review the existing curriculum in higher education institutions and to assess the need of addition of peace education in the curriculum. It is worth noting to study the curriculum of MS/M. Phil. Islamic studies to assess its effectiveness to promote tolerance, peace and harmony in the society which is the core theme of Paigham-e-Pakistan, the national narrative of government of Pakistan. The originality and value of this study is obvious to suggest the peace education in higher studies curriculum to promote peace, harmony and tolerance in the society.

Keywords: Islam, curriculum, Paigham-e-Pakistan, peace, harmony.

PRELUDE

Pakistan has been facing terrorism from last four centuries. After 9/11 America initiated war against terrorism in Afghanistan. Being close neighbour of Afghanistan, Pakistan has adversely been affected by the consequences of the War. It has resulted in increased militancy and terrorism in the country. Thousands of Army personnel and civilians from all areas of society have sacrificed their lives in this wave of terrorist activities. It has also resulted in the financial loses, instability and other losses to the country. In order to face this challenge Pak Army is doing its best to secure the outside and inside borders of the country. Studies have shown that radical thought is provoked through social and political ideologies. Although economic poverty does play important role in the provision of workforce to execute terrorist activities, however, the role of education in changing mindset cannot be denied (Zahid, 2017). With the help of strategic education policy attitudes of learners can be refined. It is well recognized role of education to sustain tolerance, harmony and peace in the society (Jenkins, 2007).

¹ Institute of Arabic and Islamic Studies, Government College Women University, Sialkot, Pakistan.
² Department of Islamic Studies, The University of Lahore-Sargodha Sub Campus, Sargodha, Pakistan.

In Pakistan, while soldiers tried their best to secure the physical borders of the country, the intellectuals and educationists do not left behind. To secure the academic boundaries of the country a debate initiated in the academic circles about the authenticity of terrorist narrative in perspective of Islamic teachings. It resulted in the formulation of national narrative namely “Paigham-e-Pakistan” (IRI, 2018). The Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative recommended various policy suggestions to bring change in the vision of society. An important postulate of the said document states the importance of educational institutions in overcoming extremism in the society. For this reason there is need to review the existing curriculum of educational institutions of Pakistan to foster the peace process in the country.

Although the need of peace education is felt at all levels in Pakistan, there exist some constraints. For example, in Pakistan there are three parallel education systems. Firstly, there are government education institutions, Secondly, private education institutions, and thirdly Islamic Madrassas. All the three educations institutions vary in their goals, follow their own syllabus that is different from one another, and even use different pedagogies. The teachers of these institutions also come from these different streams. It is also evident that these institutions rarely interact with each other. The highest degree in Madrassa education is system is equivalent to sixteen years of formal education system. After completing their education in Madrassas, the students use to get enrolled in eighteen years of education that is named as “MS/ M.Phil. in Islamic Studies. It is important degree program as the students from three parallel systems are combined in

---

3 Basit, Abdul, and Zahid Shahab Ahmed. "The persistence of terrorism in Pakistan: An analysis of domestic and regional factors." In Terrorism, Security and Development in South Asia, (New York: Routledge, 2021), 157-174.

4 Jenkins, Tony, Community-based institutes on peace education (CIPE). Organizer’s manual (New York, NY: IIPE, 2007), 112.

5 International Research Institute, Paigham-e-Pakistan, (Islamabad: Islamic Research Institute, International Islamic University, 2018), 10.
the classroom. Therefore, this is the most important degree program that can play its role in peace building.

There are various studies available on the importance of peace education in transforming the societies. In the next section, review of relevant literature has been presented to examine this multifaceted concept and to point out the research gap present in the field of study.

LITERATURE REVIEW

There is substantial literature available on the development of the subject of peace and conflict studies (Harris and Morrison, 2003). The field of study of peace and conflict studies has traditionally been marked by the diffusion of variety of concepts and themes. One of the oldest degree program in peace and conflict studies was initiated in 1974 in “The Center for Applied Conflict Management” at Kent State University, USA. Initially it did not get popularity. The contents of the program were limited and also were unable to have any reasonable impact on the student body (Coy and Hancock, 2010). It has been evolving with time and changing contents. The scope of peace and conflict studies is much wider, however, it essentially incorporates set of topics that have come to define the field (Coy, 2009). Main three facets of the subject area are: firstly, to elaborate the causes and consequences of violence and destructive conflicts in the realm of individual, social and international levels; secondly it describes the initiatives to resolve, transform or manage the conflicts on all three levels; and thirdly, to develop such practices, norms and institutions that promote peace at each of the three levels (Lopez 2009).

---

6 Coy, Patrick G., Landon E. Hancock, and Anuj Gurung, "Peace studies and conflict resolution." In Routledge Companion to Peace and Conflict Studies (New York: Routledge, 2019), 68-78.
7 Harris, Ian M., and Mary Lee Morrison, Peace Education (North Carolina: Jefferson, McFarland and Company, Inc., Publishers 2003), 53.
8 Coy, Patrick G., and Landon E. Hancock. "Mainstreaming peace and conflict studies: designing introductory courses to fit liberal arts education requirements." Journal of Peace Education 7, no. 2 (2010): 205-219.
9 Hall, Barbara Welling, Joseph Liechty, and Julie Garber, Peace, justice, and security studies: A curriculum guide. Edited by Timothy A. (McElwee. L. Rienner Publishers, 2009), 190.
10 Lopez, George A. "Dynamics affecting conflict, justice, and peace." Peace, justice, and security studies: A curriculum guide (2009): 91-104.
The importance of peace education has been felt all around the world, especially after 9/11 phenomenon in America and war against terrorism in Afghanistan and its aftershocks. The educationists’ all around the world have been in pursuit of curriculum and policies to revise the curricula to ensure peace in the society. For this reason now peace education is seen as a valuable field that nurtures the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behaviors in learners to establish the culture of peace. The increasing literature on peace education shows importance of the field of study in the contemporary circumstances (Harris 2003).

Adding to the contents of the peace education course, Reardon explains the curriculum of peace education shall be able to reduce the frictions among individual and institutional rifts and transform them to the environment of non-violence. To Reardon, honor of the Human Rights should be the main mission of the peace education (Reardon, 2001). Conflict is natural phenomenon, as different people have different points of views. Different situations result in non-agreements that lead to conflicting situations. And the conflict causes serious violence that ultimately leads to destruction and devastation. Education helps in minimizing conflicts by stimulating learner’s vision and refining its thoughts and behaviors. In this manner conflicts are managed and resolved without the use of aggression and violence (Rosen 2009). It is evident that the peace education motivates people to acknowledge their rights and duties. With this acknowledgement improves social welfare of the people and promotes an all-inclusive environment of living (Alimba, 2016).

Earlier it is well understood that the peace education has four facets. These four types or classes are important in understanding different approaches to peace education. The first type of peace education focuses on international ideas of conflict situations and providing their solutions. The second type is related to knowledge of peace and providing necessary information about nature of conflicts and related issues. Third approach focuses on ideological side of the nature of conflicts. The last and fourth type

---

11 Harris, Peace education, 112.
12 Reardon, Betty A. Education for a Culture of Peace in a Gender Perspective (Paris: UNESCO, 2001), 28.
13 Yousaf, Amna, Irfan Bashir, and Faisal Anis. "Transformative role of Islam for Peace Education and Research." Hamdard Islamicus 43, no. 2 (2020): 1614-1621.
14 Alimba, C. N. "Peace Education: A Panacea for Quality Assurance in Higher Education in Africa." International Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies 3, no. 1 (2016): 19-31.
is the politics side of the nature of conflicts. It emphasizes on efforts to minimize conflicts through social change. The study of all these approaches help in emphasizing the importance of peace among the students and thus, promotes peace in the society (Harbor 2004).

Keeping in view the importance of peace education in educational institutions, one of the most influential works on peace education appeared in 2012 by famous author, Nel Nodding (Noddings 2012). The book entitled: “Peace Education: How we come to love and hate war”, is notable book on the Western approach to war. The author of the book focuses on the impact of structural factors such as religion, gender etc., in education and their implications on the society. The book concludes with the notion that the subject of peace education must be added as a typical curriculum, rather than “marginalizing it as an add a course” (Noddings 2012: 143).

Form the previous discussion it is evident that peace education is dynamic participatory process that brings behavioral change in the learners and help in promoting the environment of peace in the society. The curriculum consisting on gender studies, human rights, importance of dialogue and non-violence transform the psychological and behavioral patterns of students. Although Pakistan is a country that often faces waves of terrorism and violence, it shows little concern to change its curriculum in educational institutions. Basharat (2017) explains the necessity of peace education is felt among the tutors, however, there is no serious attempt made so far to make it part of regular curriculum at different levels of education. He recommends that the peace education be included and taught at graduate level.

The current study will look into the curriculum of MS/MPhil in Islamic learning curriculum and assessment of viability of peace education in it.

1.1 Problem Statement

---

15 Danesh, Hossain B. "Towards an integrative theory of peace education." Journal of peace education 3, no. 1 (2006): 55-78.
16 Noddings, Nel. "The caring relation in teaching." Oxford review of education 38, no. 6 (2012): 771-781.
17 Noddings, Nel, and Laurie Brooks, Teaching controversial issues: The case for critical thinking and moral commitment in the classroom, (New York: Teachers College Press, 2017), 210.
18 Khan, Basharat Ali. "Need Assessment of Peace Education as a Subject Inclusion in Distance Education Curriculum at Graduate Level in Pakistan." International Journal of Distance Education and E-Learning 3, no. 1 (2017): 20-23.
The research paper is designed to investigate the need assessment of curriculum of Islamic learning in higher education in perspective of Paigham-e-Pakistan. The study focuses on the importance of Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative in current situation of Pakistan and the curriculum offered in higher education institutions. It also examines the scope of curriculum of Islamic studies in relation to the promotion of peace and harmony in the society.

1.2 Purpose of the Study
Following are the purposes of the study:

1. To examine and review the existing curriculum of MS/M.Phil in Islamic studies to find out its relevance to the goals and recommendations of Paigham-e-Pakistan.
2. To assess the need of peace education in perspective of Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative.
3. And to suggest a road map to include peace education subject in the MS/M.Phil Islamic studies.

1.3 Limitation of the Study
Due to time and length of paper constraints the curriculum of few reputable Universities would be analyzed in the paper. The scope of paper is limited to the ‘master of philosophy in Islamic learning program’.

1.4 Importance of Study
As described earlier the main objective of this study is to analyze the curriculum of M. Phil in Islamic learning to achieve the goal of peace in our society, in the country and in the world as a whole. The study shall focus on the intellectual development of future leadership which shall pay back in the form of more secure world than the world we are living today. The endeavor of the study is to bring peace in world through mental uplift and transformation of scholars of master of philosophy in Islamic learning.

METHODOLOGY
Qualitative approach has been used in this paper. Extensive review of relevant literature on peace education is carried out. Furthermore, analysis of Paigham-e-Pakistan document published by the government of Pakistan and curricula of different universities has been carried out to evaluate their compatibility in fulfilling the objectives of the said document.

2.1 Population of the study
The higher education system in Pakistan is governed by the Higher Education Commission (HEC). The commission has recognized 174 public and private sector universities and oversee their teaching quality, research outputs and funding issues. These 174 universities vary in their scope, ranging from conventional education to military or vocation areas of study. Out of these recognized universities 72 universities offer MS/M.Phil, Islamic studies degree program. The population of the study consist of all the 72 universities offering eighteen years of education in Islamic learning.

2.2 Sample of the study
The sample of the study was selected through random sampling technique. The sample was taken 25 universities. 15 universities belong to public sector and 10 universities belong to private sector universities offering MS/M.Phil Islamic learning program.

2.3 Data Collection
Data was collected from the HEC approved curriculum of the universities taken as sample. The course offered by these universities consists of 4 semesters. In the first two semesters total 8 courses are offered. The last two semesters consist of research work to be carried out to fulfil the requirements of degree of M.Phil/MS Islamic studies. The curriculum of 40 public sector and private sector universities was examined. The assessment was carried out pertaining to the first two semesters. The thorough examination was carried out to find the nature of courses offered and the inclusion of peace education in the curriculum.

2.4 Organization of the paper
The paper is categorized into five sections. In the first section introduction of the topic is provided which includes literature review, problem statement, and purpose of study, limitations and importance of the study. In the second section, nature and scope of Paigham-e-Pakistan is explained in the perspective of hostile condition of Pakistan. In the third section the value of peace education in relation to Paigham-e-Pakistan is described. In the fourth section critical analysis of need assessment of peace education and curriculum of various universities in Pakistan offering eighteen years of education in Islamic studies is presented. In the last section conclusion is drawn and some recommendations are presented to the policy makers.

NATURE AND SCOPE OF PAIGHAM-E-PAKISTAN NARRATIVE

In the phenomena of increasing extremism and violence in the world, Pakistan is no exception. In fact, extremism and terrorism has been a great threat to the peace and harmony in Pakistan (Begum, 2012). Pakistan has taken all the possible steps to overcome terrorism, extremism and violence in the society. Paigham-e-Pakistan is part of such efforts to minimize violence in the country. Paigham-e-Pakistan is a religious opinion (fatwa) prepared by the research scholars of Islamic Research Institute of International Islamic University, Islamabad. The original draft was presented at the national seminar held at the International Islamic University, on 26th May 2017 with the title “Reconstruction of Pakistani Society in the light of Meesaq-e-Madinah”. In that seminar a “Joint Declaration” and a unanimous fatwa (legal standing) was also presented. Later on, that joint declaration and unanimous fatwa were merged together and an improved draft was prepared with the consultation of eminent scholars of the higher education institutions and Ulema (religious leaders) from all sects and Wafaqs of Pakistan. The following non-governmental educational institutions cooperated and approved the draft:

1. Wafaq-ul-Madaris al-Arabiyyah
2. Tanzim-ul-Madaris Ahl-e-Sunnat
3. Wafaq-ul-Madaris al-Salifiyyah
4. Wafaq-ul-Madaris al-Shi’ah
5. Rabitat-ul-Madaris Pakistan

With their cooperation and assistance, this draft was converted into a unanimous religious opinion (Fatwa) endorsed by more than 1800 Muslim scholars (Ulema) of the country. The final version of the unanimous fatwa was prepared in the light of teachings of the Holy Quran and Sunnah of the Prophet (SAW), and in accordance with the Constitution of Pakistan. This document entitled “Paigham-e-Pakistan” (Message of Pakistan) was published with the approval of State of Pakistan and was considered as

---

19 Begum, Abida. "The concept and perception of peace education in Gilgit Baltistan Pakistan: A comparative case study." The Peace and Conflict Review 7, no. 1 (2012): 25.
basic code of conduct and national narrative on peace and harmony in the society (IRI, 2018).

The important postulates of Paigham-e-Pakistan are as under:

1. The Islamic scholars rejected the extremism in all its forms and suggested to deal with it as religious obligation through all possible means.
2. The spreading of sectarian hatred and violence in the society was considered as un-Islamic according to the teachings of Quran and Sunnah (SAW).
3. To implement Shariah laws in Islam with the help of force was declared as forbidden and an act of rebellion against state.
4. The declaration states all the suicide attacks on the name of Islam as forbidden “Haram”, in the light of Quran and Sunnah (SAW).

The declaration of Jihad (Holy War) was considered to a purely State Prerogative.

The declaration supported the military operations to secure and strengthen the country (IRI, 2018: 65-68).

This unanimous religious opinion of Muslim scholars accompanied by a joint declaration, asserted the need of construction of society based upon the values such as tolerance, brotherhood, mutual respect and comprehensive system of justice (IRI, 2018: 50). Paigham-e-Pakistan is seen to be a positive initiative to make Pakistan a peaceful and safe country. The importance of Pigham-e-Pakistan lies in the fact that it is vigorous narrative of Pakistan against increasingly extremism and terrorism in the country. Paigham-e-Pakistan is considered to be the message conveyed by the religious scholars from all areas of the country that Islam is against violence and all the activities of violence on the name of Allah are against the true teachings of Islam. It is the message from the learned community to transform the minds of people of Pakistan to stop uprising weapons against state.

Paigham-e-Pakistan is the narrative to promote Islamic values such as brotherhood, patience and forgiveness to bring peace to the country. These values are important for peaceful co-existence but over looked by people to gain materialistic intentions. The propagation of the narrative of peace and harmony is important to minimize extremism,

---

20 IRI, Paigham-e-Pakistan, 40.
21 IRI, Paigham-e-Pakistan, 45.
22 IRI, Paigham-e-Pakistan, 50
sectarianism, prejudices and violence in the society. The essence of narrative of peace is to make people convinced to reject the misinterpretation of radical religious groups in the society. In the declaration of Paigham-e-Pakistan the necessity of transformation of Pakistani society is seen as a crucial process for achieving peace in the country. The inculcation of values such as justice, liberty, equality, tolerance, mutual respect and harmony in the people is of immense importance to achieve the goal of peaceful coexistence. All these circumstances need a transformation in the mindset at all levels. The mentality of peace has to prevail in order to secure peace in the world.

In this national narrative, the role of educational institutions to promote message of peace was also highlighted. The declaration emphasized the role of education to transform society into a peaceful coexistence. The declaration showed optimistic approach towards educational institutions to eradicate violence, extremism and militancy. In the following section role of education in the successful implementation of Pigham-e-Pakistan narrative is discussed.

IMPORTANCE OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN PERSPECTIVE OF “PAIGHAM-E-PAKISTAN”

Conflict and peace are often closely related to each other. To convert situation of violence into peace following approaches could be used. First approach towards peace is to use force to end violence. Peace through use of force involves the use of physical involvement for achieving peace. Physical strength or use of force requires use of arms to minimize extremism and aggression. The second approach is to minimize conflict by use of political process. Through politics peace is achieved by ensuring rule of law and provision of justice to the community. And the third approach consists on transformation process. It is concerned with the use of justice and transformation. It is the tool to bring peace and harmony in the society. It is concerned with fulfilling human rights and needs and transformation of behaviours and benefits.

From the transformation approach, the conflict always is not a bad thing. This is the phenomena that brings life a meaningful activity and enable persons to be able to understand the different viewpoints (Kenedy & Mutendwahothe, 2014). In fact, healthy conflicts help in discussions of problem and finding their solutions. However, discussion on different viewpoints requires openness in thought. The openness in thought comes with education (HEC, 2012). Education also helps in conflict resolution and transformation of mindset. The transformation of minds is just like a vehicle with slow speed. It could not bring results immediately. The peace program through education is a long enduring process. The crops of such programs are cultivated slowly and are far reaching. Its benefits are not shown in resolving current violent situations but also to prevent serious conflicts which may arise in future. It is not possible to completely eliminate conflicts in lives and in the world. The more appropriate way to respond to conflicts is to try to minimize them. Conflicts may be minimized by mutual respect, honour, care and responsibility towards self and towards others. To achieve this goal education can play vital role (HEC, 2012).

Through the process of education knowledge, skills and values are embodied in students to maintain healthy and respectful social environment (Stephen, 2015). Education helps in minimizing conflicts by means of non-violence and maintaining a pleasant relationship that are beneficial to all members of the society. The education transforms individuals by means of stimulating information, developing capacities and capabilities, refining attitudes to encourage peace within communities. It brings about slow and lasting changes in the behaviours of people to love peace and hate war and violence. Through participatory education process there is need to change the thinking of people and stimulate them observing peace practices rather than incline towards conflicts and violence. To secure peace through education is most important strategy and pays back in the long run (Basharat, 2017).

23 Asembo, Kenedy Onyango, and Mutendwahothe Walter Lumadi. "Curriculum Design of Higher Education in Peace and Security Studies: Student’s Perceptions of Quality." Mediterranean Journal of Social Sciences 5, no. 20 (2014): 2896.
24 HEC, Contemporary Issues and Trends in Education (Islamabad: Higher Education Commission, Pakistan, 2012), 75.
25 Ellahi, Abida, and Bilal Zaka. "Analysis of higher education policy frameworks for open and distance education in Pakistan." Evaluation review 39, no. 2 (2015): 255-277.
26 Thompson, Stephen. Links between education and peace. (GSDRC Helpdesk Research Report, 2015), 23-28.
27 Basharat, Need Assessment of peace education as a subject inclusion in distance education curriculum at graduate level in Pakistan. 18-33.
The objective of Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative is to bring peace, harmony and mutual respectful coexistence within the society. Educating students for peace relates to the empowerment of people with the capacities, capabilities and attitudes to create an environment where everyone feels safe and secure. The students must be taught to the non-violence, love, compassion for whole of life. The education helps in creating values, knowledge and skills in students aiming at preparation of a learned community to change the world positively through socio-cultural levels (Harvey, 2018).

The higher education institutions can play vital role in promoting the objective of Paigham-e-Pakistan. It is the responsibility of the universities of Pakistan to increase awareness, knowledge and values needed to promote peace in the society. The universities have the responsibility on their shoulders to prepare scholars who develop, manage and further teach students with especial focus on peace education. One of the degrees awarded in universities is ‘Master of Philosophy’ equivalent to eighteen years of education which is significant in achieving goals of Paigham-e-Pakistan for various reasons. Its importance in perspective of paigham-e-Pakistan is discussed in the next topic.

ANALYSIS OF M.S/M.PHIL ISLAMIC LEARNING CURRICULUM IN PERSPECTIVE OF “PAIGHAM-E-PAKISTAN”

The higher education system in Pakistan is governed by the Higher Education Commission (HEC). In Pakistan, 72 HEC recognized universities offer MS/M.Phil., Islamic studies degree program. Master of Philosophy in Islamic learning is two year education program introduced to provide scholars in religious studies to fulfil the academic needs of the society. The scholars participating in ‘Master of science (MS)/Master of Philosophy (M.Phil.) in Islamic learning’ come from different educational systems. Some students come from the formal educational institutions such as universities after completing ‘Master of Arts’, and some students join this program after sixteen years of education in ‘Madrassah education system. The curriculum of both mainstream educational institutions varies in great extent. The curriculum of Madaris includes more conservative approach than the universities. The madaris are also

---

28 Oueijan, Harvey N. "Educating for peace in higher education." Universal Journal of Educational Research 6, no. 9 (2018): 1916-1920.
maligned to increase sectarianism and extremism in the society. The students from different educational background are merged in the eighteen year of education entitled MS/M.Phil. Islamic learning.

Moreover, after sixteen years of education, students become mature enough to become a productive member of the society. Most of the scholars at M. Phil level are used to be the in-service teachers or prospect teachers. The educators are the professionals who play most vital role in the development of future generations. Therefore, it is necessary to transform the mindset of the scholars of M. Phil degree to be able to understand their intellectual responsibilities to spread the message of peace in the society. This is research oriented program aimed at solving the living problems of community with the help of Islamic teachings.

To eradicate extremism in the educational institutions the curriculum plays decisive role. In this perspective it is necessary to view the existing curriculum of universities to make world more peaceful and safe for living by means of positive morals and enlightenment in thinking. Courses offered to scholars of ‘Master of Philosophy in Islamic Learning’ generally include general subjects disregarding the field of specialization of scholars. The purpose of such courses is to provide basic knowledge of Islamic subjects in several areas. The MS/M.Phil. program is divided into two parts; one part comprises of course work and other part consists on scholarly thesis writing. The course work in M. Phil program enhances intellectual abilities in scholars of M. Phil. It is aimed at strengthening their critical analysis skills and enabling them to be the opinion makers of the society. Due to this important role M. Phil degree plays in society, there is needed to review its curricula in accordance with the needs of the country to promote Paigham-e-Pakistan.

It is highlighted in the declaration of Paigham-e-Pakistan that the most important objective of all educational institutions in Pakistan is to provide knowledge and character building of students keeping in view the Islamic principles of moderation and tolerance. There have been evidences of promotion of extremism in educational institutions in the past. It is now responsibility upon the shoulders of the educational institutions (from primary schools to higher educational institutions) to revise their curriculum to eradicate negative tendencies in the syllabus. It has been unanimously declared that the educational institutions must not promote violence and hatred in their curricula nor should they provide physical military training or education. Is the curriculum of higher education institutions in accordance with the objectives of Paigham-e-Pakistan? Let have a look at the curriculum of ‘Master of Philosophy in Islamic Learning’ in various universities of Pakistan.

Table 1. Curriculum of MS/M.Phil. Islamic studies in various universities

| Compulsory Courses Offered | Offered | Not Offered | Percentage |
|----------------------------|---------|-------------|------------|
| Semester: 1             |         |             |            |
| Quranic Sciences, Research  | 40      | 0           | 100%       |
| Methodology, Arabic Language|         |             |            |
| and Literature, Critical    |         |             |            |
| Study of Selected English   |         |             |            |
| Text/Orientalism            |         |             |            |
| Semester: 2             |         |             |            |
| Quranic Exegesis/Study of   | 40      | 0           | 100%       |
| Seerah, Hadith Sciences,    |         |             |            |
| Islam and Contemporary      |         |             |            |
| Thought, Fiqh Sciences      |         |             |            |
| In any Semester         |         |             |            |
| Peace Education             | 0       | 40          | 0%         |

Note: Semester 3&4 consist of Thesis Writing in all universities.

The close study of the curriculum of ‘Master of Philosophy in Islamic Learning’ reveals the fact that with minor differences over the course work offered in majority of the universities is similar to one another. All the universities offer courses on basic subjects such as Quranic sciences, hadith sciences, Research methodology, Islamic Jurisprudence, Arabic Language and Literature, Functional English and Study of selected English texts, Study of Seerah, Islam and Modern Contemporary Issues and Research work/ Thesis writing. It is obvious that none of these subjects solely fulfil the needs of Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative. Islam and modern contemporary issues is included in the curriculum of some universities, but this course is not aimed at specifically on peace education. It is evident that due to its importance, the peace education must be an essential part of curricula of M. Phil Islamic learning. This signifies the need of a new course to be introduced in the curricula of Islamic learning that may be named as ‘Islam and Peace’.
RATIONALE FOR “PEACE EDUCATION COURSE” IN MS/M.PHIL ISLAMIC LEARNING

The need of a course on the topic of world peace and Islam in M. Phil Islamic learning is justified for following reasons:

1. The addition of a course in the curriculum of “Master of Philosophy Islamic Learning” is necessary to meet the objectives of Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative.
2. The main focus of this course must be to provide faculty and scholars of M. Phil an insight into the needs of peace and harmony in the society.
3. Moreover, this course shall provide knowledge about the issues particularly faced by Pakistan and the whole world in general.
4. There are many misconceptions about the topics such as ‘jihad in the contemporary circumstances, nature of relations between Muslims and non-Muslims, Conflict resolution in Islam, Islam and sectarianism, world peace and security etc. The proposed course shall enable the scholars to critically analyse these misconceptions and search for ways to confront them.

The peace education course must fulfil the following objectives:

1. To develop knowledge and skills in M. Phil Islamic learning to live in harmony and peace with others.
2. The course shall be aimed at refining attitudes and behaviours of scholars to other members of the society.
3. To remove biases and minimize conflicts with other members of the society.
4. It is not possible to eliminate conflict; however, education must seek not to convert conflict into violence.
5. To promote values such as tolerance, equality, justice and affection.

In order to achieve requisite goals the proposed course shall consist necessarily those topics which are in accordance with the objectives of the Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative.
PROPOSED CONTENTS OF THE COURSE “PEACE EDUCATION IN ISLAMIC PERSPECTIVE”

The main concern of Paigham-e-Pakistan is to give peace a chance in this country. The proposed contents of the course offered for achieving peace in the society are as under:

Dignity of Man: Islamic concept of dignity of man and sanctity of human life

Human Rights Education: the rights of the humanity as a whole, the Islamic concept of discharging obligations and getting rights, introduction to the basic human rights in Islam, Rights and obligation of non-Muslims in Islamic community, rights of various members of the society

Ethical Values of Islam: Basic Islamic moral values such as empathy, mutual cooperation, justice, respect for others.

Peace within personality: looking within, forgiveness and honesty, safeguarding the tongue.

Diversity and multiculturalism: knowing diversity, differences and similarities between different religious groups

Rule of law: democratic behaviour, social peace, economic justice and obeying the law.

Love for peace: violence is not solution to any problem, peaceful means of conflict resolution.

Conflict Resolution: nature of social divides the ways to minimize conflicts and principles of conflict management in Islam,

Culture of Peace: the basic values of Islamic social systems such as democratic behaviour (shura), tolerance, cooperation, justice and equality and their importance in the current circumstances

Direct Violence: the nature of physical violence and its kinds; allowed and forbidden use of physical force in Islam.

Terrorism and its various forms: the nature, form and types of terrorism in the world and ways to minimize it.
Jihad in Contemporary world: concept of jihad and its implementation in the contemporary circumstances, rectification of misunderstanding regarding jihad

Peace Education: the positive role of peace. The results of the war.

Environmental Education: to protect natural environment of the world.

These contents shall be helpful to achieve the requisite objectives of Paigham-e-Pakistan narrative. This is an initial draft of the course. The intellectuals and academia surely shall refine and make it more comprehensive to fulfil the need of achieving peace and security in the society.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The following suitable measures are recommended:

- The recommendations of Paigham-e-Pakistan must be implemented in letter and spirit, especially those of related to education. Education plays vital role in enlightening minds of youth, therefore, it should be used as a means to eradicate extremist tendencies in the society.
- The existing curriculum of master of Philosophy in Islamic learning lacks the courses especially focused on peace education. The existing curriculum is not able to achieve goals of Paigham-e-Pakistan. The curriculum of M. Phil Islamic learning needs to be revised and revisited according to the needs of the country.
- HEC must initiate and play its role in the revision of curriculum. Most importantly, a new course is must to be included in the curriculum of master of philosophy in Islamic learning to promote awareness about human rights, interfaith dialogue, peaceful co-existence in multicultural and multi religious world.
- To achieve the goals of Paigham-e-Pakistan the contents of the course shall cover all the topics related to peace keeping in the society. The contents of the proposed course must include the topics such as rights and obligations at individual level to collective level, means and methods of interfaith dialogue, inclusion of basic values such as love, affection, harmony, mutual respect, etc.
- Teachers and professors at the University level should give more focus on highlighting the message of peace and harmony, similarities between religions rather than highlighting differences and prejudices while teaching the general Islamic subjects. For this University teachers and professors should be provided basic training workshops to learn comprehend and implement objectives of peace and harmony in the society.

- For the above mentioned recommendations, financial, material and human resources would be required. HEC and Universities should work together to provide all requisite resources to achieve peace in the society.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion benefits of Paigham-e-Pakistan in promoting peace and security in the country are obvious. The role of institutions of higher education in the country is very important in spreading Paigham-e-Pakistan. The review of current curricula of master of philosophy in Islamic learning, reveals the fact that there is need to introduce a new course in the curriculum of M. Phil Islamic learning comprising the contents in fulfilling the objectives of Paigham-e-Pakistan. The existing syllabus of master of philosophy in Islamic learning bears only traces of courses that may synchronize with the objectives of Paigham-e-Pakistan. The first step is to review and revisit the curricula or syllabi of M. Phil in Islamic learning in public and private universities of the country. For this purpose financial, material and human resources are required. The institutions should provide all available resources to successfully accomplish the goals of peace and security in the country. If higher education institutions will take the initiative than the lower level education institutions will also feel their duty to transform their curricula to the needs of the country and world in larger perspective. All the universities which are educating scholars with Islamic learning should collectively and simultaneously introduce courses to prevail the sense of peace, security, harmony and equality in the society.
Bibliography

Alimba, C. N. "Peace Education: A Panacea for Quality Assurance in Higher Education in Africa." International Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies 3, no. 1 (2016).

Asembo, Kenedy Onyango, and Mutendwahothe Walter Lumadi. "Curriculum Design of Higher Education in Peace and Security Studies: Student’s Perceptions of Quality." Mediterranean Journal of Social Sciences 5, no. 20 (2014):2472-2486, https://www.mcsen.org/journal/index.php/mjss/article/view/4167

Basit, Abdul, and Zahid Shahab Ahmed. "The persistence of terrorism in Pakistan: An analysis of domestic and regional factors." In Terrorism, Security and Development in South Asia, New York: Routledge, 2021, https://www.taylorfrancis.com/chapters/edit/10.4324/9780429342523-11

Begum, Abida. "The concept and perception of peace education in Gilgit Baltistan Pakistan: A comparative case study." The Peace and Conflict Review 7,no.1(2012):20-35, https://ecommons.aku.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?referer=https://scholar.google.com&httpsredir=1&article=1023&context=pakistan_ied_pdcn

Coy, Patrick G., and Landon E. Hancock. "Mainstreaming peace and conflict studies: designing introductory courses to fit liberal arts education requirements." Journal of Peace Education 7, no. 2 (2010): 205-219, https://www.tandfonline.com/doi/abs/10.1080/17400201.2010.515659

Coy, Patrick G., Landon E. Hancock, and Anuj Gurung, "Peace studies and conflict resolution." In Routledge Companion to Peace and Conflict Studies New York: Routledge, 2019, https://www.taylorfrancis.com/chapters/edit/10.4324/9781315182070-6

Danesh, Hossain B. "Towards an integrative theory of peace education." Journal of peace education 3, no. 1 (2006): 55-78, https://www.tandfonline.com/doi/abs/10.1080/17400200500532151

Ellahi, Abida, and Bilal Zaka. "Analysis of higher education policy frameworks for open and distance education in Pakistan." Evaluation review 39, no. 2 (2015): 255-277, https://journals.sagepub.com/doi/abs/10.1177/0193841x15570046

Hall, Barbara Welling, Joseph Liechty, and Julie Garber, Peace, justice, and security studies: A curriculum guide, Edited by Timothy A. McElwee. L. Rienner Publishers, 2009.

Harris, Ian M., and Mary Lee Morrison, Peace Education, North Carolina: Jefferson, McFarland and Company, Inc., Publishers 2003.

HEC, Contemporary Issues and Trends in Education, Islamabad: Higher Education Commission, Pakistan, 2012.
International Research Institute, Paigham-e-Pakistan, Islamabad: Islamic Research Institute, International Islamic University, 2018, https://dnd.com.pk/wp-content/uploads/2018/01/Paigham-e-Pakistan-Urdu-PDF-File.pdf

Jenkins, Tony, Community-based institutes on peace education (CIPE). Organizer’s manual, New York, NY: IIPE, 2007.

Khan, Basharat Ali. "Need Assessment of Peace Education as a Subject Inclusion in Distance Education Curriculum at Graduate Level in Pakistan." International Journal of Distance Education and E-Learning 3, no. 1 (2017): 20-23, http://irigs.iuu.edu.pk:64447/ojs/index.php/IJDEEL/article/view/285

Lopez, George A. "Dynamics affecting conflict, justice, and peace." Peace, justice, and security studies: A curriculum guide (2009): 91-104.

Noddings, Nel, and Laurie Brooks, Teaching controversial issues: The case for critical thinking and moral commitment in the classroom, New York: Teachers College Press, 2017,

Noddings, Nel. "The caring relation in teaching." Oxford review of education 38, no. 6 (2012): 771-781, https://www.tandfonline.com/doi/abs/10.1080/03054985.2012.745047

Oueijan, Harvey N. "Educating for peace in higher education." Universal Journal of Educational Research 6, no. 9 (2018). https://eric.ed.gov/?id=EJ1189953

Reardon, Betty A. Education for a Culture of Peace in a Gender Perspective, Paris: UNESCO, 2001, https://eric.ed.gov/?id=ED460922

Thompson, Stephen. Links between education and peace, GSDRC Helpdesk Research Report, 2015. http://www.heart-resources.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/01/HDO1308.pdf

Yousaf, Amna, Irfan Bashir, and Faisal Anis. "Transformative role of Islam for Peace Education and Research." Hamdard Islamicus 43, no. 2 (2020) https://hamdardfoundation.org/hamdard