ABSTRACT
Sherpa language spoken by Sherpas, the inhabitants of Himalayan region, falls on Tibeto-Burman language family. While comparing the case grammar of Sherpa language and Nepali language both have similarly types of case and case marker (Bibhakti). Sherpa Subjective case takes [kri] suffix as case marker and Nepali case takes [le]. Sherpa objective case takes [fla] suffix as case marker and Nepali case takes [lai]. Instrumental case takes [k[i] suffix as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali case takes [fla/ hata]. Dative case take [fla:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali case takes [lai]. Ablative case takes [fla:sn] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali case takes [hata/ dek]. Locative case takes [fla:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali case takes [ma] and possessive case takes [k[i] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali case takes [ro/ no/ ko]. Sherpa language and Nepali language are similar on the basis of case grammar study. The sentence structure in Sherpa language is different from Nepali language. There is no gender system in this language. Verbs are not changed on the basis of number either.

SPECIAL WORDS: Tibeto-Burman, Sambhota Script, Kham, tan, Linguistic Universal.

INTRODUCTION
This is a comparative study of Sherpa and Nepali language on the basis of case system with their marker. Case is the relation of nouns with the verb. It is the semantic role of noun phrase in sentences (Yadav and Regmi, 2058: 202). Chomsky talked about linguistic universal in his standard theory. According to Chomsky all the languages of words are similar in their deep level though they are different in surface level (Bandhu, 2066: 179). The case of Sherpa and Nepali language have been studied on the basis of this theory. 'Case' is defined as the grammatical category of nominal group in a sentence (Sharma, 2071: 408). This is the thematic role of nouns with the other words, especially verbs. Case is the relation of nominal groups with verb, which is the core of the sentence. The study aims at studying case system of Nepali language and Sherpa language, spoken by the Sherpas of high Himalayan region. Sherpas are supposed to have come to Nepal from Kham of Tibet. Their Sherpa language falls on Tibeto-Burman language family. This language is written in 'Sambhota Script' (Sherpa, 2007: 1). Tibeto-Burma language family is the second largest language family after Indo-European language family on the basis of speakers in Nepali language of Tibeto-Burma family are spoken in many countries including Nepal. The main area where Sherpa language is spoken is Himalayan region of Solukhumbu district. Sherpas speakers are scattered in various districts of Mechi, Koshi, Sagarmatha, Bagmati and Janakpur zones. They reached in different countries for tourism, trade, hotel and other employment. Sherpa language has various regional dialects. Young (2000AD) has stated three regional dialects as Khumbu, Solu and Western. This language has its own structure and characteristics. So this is a full-fledged language. Constitution of Nepal guarantees every communities to get basic education in their mother tongue as per the language. The study is fulfil to consolidate this policy and to solve the problems that occur to Sherpa speaker while learning Nepali as language. This study is also helpful for the researcher who are interested in case system of Sherpa language.

The word 'Karak' (case) has been formed by joining suffix to the base [kri]. It has been derived from Sanskrit [Karsiti]. Case, in its direct sense, refers to the doer of the action, but technically 'case' reforms to the interrelationship between various words in a sentence (Dahal, 2061: 51). In grammar case refers to the relation of verb (both finite and non-finite) with the other words. In a sentence these may be nouns, pronouns adjectives with the verbs case in the relation of these words with the verb. The relation of noun phrases with the verb is 'case' (Awasthi and Sharma, 2057: 223).

The nouns or pronouns that are linked with the verb is case. It is a grammatical category of noun or pronoun that show the relation with the verb. 'Bibhakti' in its literal sense refers to divider. It is a special type of suffix that is attached with other words to give different meanings. Chomsky (1981AD) views that no nouns can be found in sentences without case. So case is the relation of nouns with the verbs. Noun includes pronouns as well (Pokhrel, 2056: 107). Grammatical category 'case' refers to the role or function of nominal in a sentence. It is simple (non-changing) and complex (changeable) (Sharma and Luitel, 2060: 133). 'Bibhakti' is the suffix that is attached to the nouns which are directly related to the verbs.

OBJECTIVE

The objective of this study is to reach to the conclusion by comparing the case between Sherpa language and Nepali language.

METHODOLOGY OF THE STUDY

This study has been prepared with regional survey method and library work. It is prepared on qualitative framework. The researcher has selected to male and 10 female Sherpa language speakers from 10 household out of 10 households in Ambung V.D.C. and Jirikhimti V.D.C. of Terhathum district. He has adopted qualitative method for collecting data with the help of MP3 voice recording device as the researcher himself is Sherpa language speaker. Data collection was made with questionnaire and interview. The informants were selected by purposive sampling (CrossWell, 2015: 206). Different articles on Sherpa language, library study are the secondary sources of data. The data has been compared with the case of Nepali language. Descriptive method has been adopted for the analysis and interpretation. Case is the grammatical category of nominal group that show relation with the verb in both the languages. It is the relation of nouns with the other words, especially with the verb (Sharma, 2054: 270).

The above table shows that Sherpa language and Nepali language are similar in their case and their markers.

| Case       | Case marker Indicators | Sherpa | Nepali |
|------------|------------------------|--------|--------|
| Subjective | [ki]                   |        | [le]   |
| Objective  | [la:]                  |        | [la]   |
| Instrumental/agent | [ki:/gi:] |        | [le/ba:ta] |
| Dative     | [la:]                  |        | [la]   |
| Ablative   | [tja:su]               |        | [ba:ta/bekb:] |
| Possessive | [ki:]                  |        | [ra/na/ko] |
| Locative   | [la:]                  |        | [ma:]  |

The above table shows that Sherpa language and Nepali language are similar in their case and their markers.

SUBJECTIVE CASE

Subjective case is the relation of noun or pronoun that indicates doer of the doer of the verb (Awasthi and Sharma, 2053: 230). Subject is the noun that refers to the doer of the action. Every verb needs subject. None of the works are hold without subject.

Above examples show that Sherpa language takes [Ki] as a case marker and Nepali language takes [le] as case marker. Sherpa language takes [gi] as case marker in 3rd person singular. Even if the two language differ in 3rd person singular they are similar in other persons as [Ki] in Sherpa language and [le] in Nepali language.

Objective case takes [lai] as case marker in Nepali language and [ləː] in Sherpa language. Above examples in both the languages objective case seems similar.

The examples of instrumental case in Sherpa language and Nepali language are given below:

| Sherpa Language                  | Nepali Language          | English Language                  |

In Sherpa language instrumental case has been indicated by [ki] and in Nepali language by [le]. Both Sherpa language and Nepali language has similar structure of instrumental case.

The examples of Sherpa language and Nepali language are shown here.

| /ñìa tala lìtsì termì/           | /ma gəːdɔlalai makai dìnstsəu/ | I give maize to the horse.      |

In Sherpa language [ləː] is the case marker of dative case and in Nepali [lai] is the case marker. These two languages seem similar in dative case as well.

ABLATIVE CASE

Ablative case is the relation of verb with the subject or object indicating separation, orientation, duration, spread and continuity from the fixed entity (Neupane, 2051: 281). Dative case shows the separation of nouns. It shows the separation after the action takes place.

Examples of ablative case from Sherpa language are given below:

| Sherpa Language | Nepali Language | English Language |
|-----------------|-----------------|------------------|
| /puzung khanya tjasu hungju/ | /tsoro gharbata autsa/ | The son comes from home. |
| /pum kettajasu hwasun/ | /tsori khetbata ai/ | The daughter came from. |
| /ŋja lakpa tja: su firsun/ | /mats̱a hatbata uphirjo/ | The fish jumped off the field. |
| /pumtiwa harta: su hwasun/ | /ts̱oriharu bazarbata aE/ | Daughters came from the market. |
| /Pasan ̃ naniñ tjasu rambu gal/ | /Pasan pohar ̃ekhi motajo/ | Pasang has got fatter since last year. |
| /ŋiba hambur tja: su hwabuza/ | /hami Kathmandubata aEka hau/ | We have come from Kathmandu. |

In Nepali language [deki:] and [ba:ta] suffixes are attached to the noun to indicate ablative case and [tjasu:] suffix is attached to the nouns of Sherpa language to indicate ablative case.

POSSESSIVE CASE

Possessive case shows the possession or ownership of noun (Awasthi and Sharma, 2053: 93). Possessive case indicates the relation of person. Place

| Sherpa Language | Nepali Language | English Language |
|-----------------|-----------------|------------------|
| /ḵorongki min kān hīn/ | /ti mro nam kēhō/ | What is your name? |
| /ḵhorongki ḵamba kān hīn/ | /timro g̱ar kāha ho/ | Where is your house. |
| /ḵorongki ḵānbal a kān gāl/ | /tero khotama ke ḇa̱jo/ | What happened to your leg? |
| /Nurbuki puẕung lac̱a hīn/ | /Nurbuko ts̱ora lac̱a ho/ | Nurbu's son is Lakpa. |

In Nepali language [ro], [no] and [kj] is used to indicate possession and Sherpa language case marker used as a [ki], Nepali language used more case marker in possession case but Sherpa used only [ki].

All the actions take place in some location and time. The place or time on which the event takes place is locative case. Location is the case that shows the place or base of subject and object (Adhikari, 2068: 253).

LOCATIVE CASE

Some examples of locative case from Sherpa language are given below:

| Sherpa Language | Nepali Language | English Language |
|-----------------|-----------------|------------------|
| /dōngula tsežīmā dešur/ | /rūkha ṯora basjo/ | A bird sat on a tree. |
| /dōla bu hw:ae/ | /dhu:ṟama kira ts̱a/ | There is an insect on the stone. |
| /ḏān kẖorōñ khangbala hw:ae/ | /hizo tīmi g̱a̱roim 8̱jīu/ | You were at home yesterday. |
| /ṟa ḵeṯa la:kā kirmī/ | /ma ḵeṯma kam garts̱u/ | I work on the farm. |
| /pumtiwa skula hi loi/ | /shorihraru skulma pads̱ān/ | The daughters study in school. |
| /Pembaki zholala kitab zjaksu/ | /pembale zholama kitab ra:ḵjo/ | Pembu put books in the bag. |

Locative case is indicated as [ma:] suffix in Nepali language and [la:] in Sherpa language.

CONCLUSION

While comparing the case grammar of Sherpa language and Nepali language they bear similar types of case indicators. Sherpa language takes [ki:] suffix as case marker in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd person singular takes [gi:] and Nepali language takes [le] suffix as case marker in subjective case. Objective case takes [la:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali takes [la]. Instrumental case takes [ki:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali takes [le/ ba:ta]. Dative case takes [la:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali takes [la]. Ablative case takes [tjasu:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali language takes [le/ ba:ta].
Possessive case takes [ki:] as case marker in Sherpa language and Nepali takes [ro/ no/ ko] and locative case takes [la:] as case marker in Sherpa and Nepali takes [ma]. Both Nepali and Sherpa languages use similar case markers, but Sherpa language does not show congruity on the basis of gender, which Nepali language does. There is no change in verb form on the basis of number in Sherpa language. The meaning is distinguished on the basis of tone intonation in Sherpa language.
