Supplementary

Evaluation of the Use of an Inorganic Bone Matrix in the Repair of Bone Defects in Rats Submitted to Experimental Alcoholism

Iris Jasmin Santos German 1,2,3, Karina Torres Pomini 1, Ana Carolina Cestari Bighetti 1, Jesus Carlos Andreo 1, Carlos Henrique Bertoni Reis 4, André Luis Shinohara 1, Geraldo Marco Rosa Júnior 5,6, Daniel de Bortoli Teixeira 4, Marcelie Priscila de Oliveira Rosso 1, Daniela Vieira Buchaim 4,7 and Rogério Leone Buchaim 1,4,*

1 Department of Biological Sciences (Anatomy), Bauru School of Dentistry, University of São Paulo (USP), Bauru, São Paulo, 17012-901, Brazil; irish_knaan@hotmail.com (I.J.S.G.); karinatorrespomini@gmail.com (K.T.P.); anacarolinacb25@gmail.com (A.C.C.B.); jcandreo@usp.br (J.C.A.); andreshinohara@yahoo.com.br (A.L.S.); marcelierosso@usp.br (M.F.O.R.)
2 Department of Dentistry, Faculty of Health Science, Universidad Iberoamericana (UNIBE), Santo Domingo 10203, Dominican Republic
3 Mother and Teacher Pontifical Catholic University (PUCMM), Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic;
4 Postgraduate Program in Structural and Functional Interactions in Rehabilitation, University of Marilia (UNIMAR), Marilia, São Paulo, 17525-902, Brazil; carloshbreis@yahoo.com.br (C.H.B.R.);
daniel.dbt@hotmail.com (D.B.T.); danibuchaim@usp.br (D.V.B.)
5 University of the Ninth of July (UNINOVE), Bauru, São Paulo, 17011-102, Brazil; geraldomrjr@yahoo.com.br
6 University of the Sacred Heart (USC), Bauru, São Paulo, 17011-160, Brazil
7 Medical School, University Center of Adamantina (UniFAI), Adamantina, São Paulo, 17800-000, Brazil;
* Correspondence: rogerio@fob.usp.br

Received: 13 December 2019; Accepted: 27 January 2020; Published: 3 February 2020

Figure S1: Representative image of the methodology used to quantify the area of newly formed bone, graft particles, by Axio Vision software.