Abstract. From the process of campus violence to juvenile delinquency, we can observe that contemporary juvenile legal education is very lacking. As an indispensable content in the basic literacy education system of all citizens of our country, the rule of law education seems to be no longer applicable in the field of young people. It is also because of the increasing probability of juvenile criminal accidents. And the lower limit of the current criminal's age is getting smaller. This phenomenon is absolutely not allowed for a country under the rule of law like our country. In order to strengthen our country's youth legal education, we should use school resources to improve the basic youth legal education system. While the current computer skills are going deep into the realm of life, what we need to do is to use computer teaching methods for youth legal education.

1. Introduction

Our country is a country under the rule of law. The citizens of our country and society must go through the restrictions of the legal system to be able to live a perfect and free life. A system without moral standards and legal standards is not allowed to exist. Illegal and criminal acts are also something that every citizen needs to stop. This kind of basic legal education should exist in the textbook theory. However, the criminal behavior of young people in our country is no longer optimistic. School violence is the chief culprit of juvenile delinquency. School education and parent education of children have become the fuse for juvenile crime. Teenagers are the future and brilliant flowers of the motherland. Therefore, we must put an end to juvenile delinquency. Juvenile legal education must be carried out at the source. Educators think of education within schools.

In a practical sense, juvenile legal education should be an important basic measure based on the legal system proposed by our country to govern the country according to law, build a harmonious society and prevent the high frequency of illegal acts. In today's educational situation, various educational methods are emerging one after another. These educational methods rarely have the basic system of legal education. The least part of the basic system of the rule of law is still incomplete. This situation has resulted in the imperfection of the rule of law education for young people in our schools. In the face of the widespread application of computer skills today, how to use the... technology of computer education methods to improve the juvenile legal education system has become a problem that some educators in the legal field need to face.

2. Briefly describe the shortcomings of the legal education system of contemporary youth in our country from the theory of rule of law

2.1. Look at the problem from the school's perspective
In fact, we always look at the surface problems of juvenile delinquency with ignorant eyes. We always think that this is the result of adolescents’ bad mental state or that it is caused by depression or mental illness. But when we look at this problem from the perspective of school, we will find that the traditional education system does not pay attention to the rule of law education for young people at all. It is even said that the rule of law education in schools is just an empty shell.

2.2. Look at the problem from a social perspective
According to the theories of foreign sociologists, the nature of society they believe is actually a collection of the basic nature of people. Looking at juvenile delinquency from a social perspective, I think it may be that the bad social environment affects the juvenile’s immature concept of the rule of law. Or it is the lack of legal education for teenagers created by the social environment. Indeed, the current social environment is not very friendly to young people. This is what we need to pay attention to.

2.3. Viewing the problem from the perspective of the family
Education is an important part of every teenager's basic education. The stage of character education mainly relies on the knowledge and experience of parents. Some good parents may educate their children about the rule of law. However, there are still some parents who use their children for blind comparisons or indulge in any willful behavior of their children. This is the lack of legal education for students at the family stage.

2.4. Look at the problem from the perspective of comprehensive education
Another situation is that none of the above three influences can make children embark on the path of crime. Under the combined influence of these three influences, the teenager's psychology has undergone abnormal changes, resulting in the lack of legal education. So when looking at this issue from a comprehensive perspective, we should not think about the consequences of a certain environmental impact. The level of our attention must be placed in any environment around the child.

3. Ways to improve the legal education system for young people
3.1. Schools and parents must pay attention to the rule of law education for students
If we accumulate all the benefits, in the future, it may form an excellent collective. The meaning of this sentence is understood in this article that schools and parents must pay attention to the rule of law education for students[3]. Please remember that the lack of our education today will surely lead to big mistakes in the future. Juvenile delinquency is a common mistake made by schools and parents. Therefore, both the campus and the family must pay attention to the rule of law education.

3.2. Teachers can use indirect teaching assistants
For some non-adult students, the legal content described by teachers may not be understood by them. Faced with this situation, it is possible to use indirect teaching assistants to explain the legal content. It can be during the end of a get out of class, or even during the self-study class, that the rule of law content can be combined with the teaching content. This can subconsciously help students understand the content of the rule of law.

3.3. The society must construct a harmonious atmosphere
As Mr. Lu Xun said, society is an environment where people cannibalize. In the cruel environment of today's society, even though this statement is one-sided, it is not entirely wrong. The impact of society on young people is very serious. If society can create a harmonious atmosphere, it can help young people understand the rule of law more smoothly. There is no doubt that the frequency of juvenile delinquency will also be greatly reduced.

3.4. The country should improve the corresponding youth legal system as soon as possible
We all seem to have discovered a problem. Our country's legislation on juvenile crimes is incomplete. This situation has led many young people to commit crimes and challenge the bottom line of the law. This is indeed a vacancy in the formulation of our country's laws. Faced with this phenomenon, the country must improve the corresponding legal system as soon as possible. Don't give juvenile delinquency opportunities. Only in this way can juvenile crime be reduced at the source.

4. Analysis of the delivery method of the content of the rule of law education for Chinese youth based on computer

4.1. Reasonable use of mobile phone software
Mobile phones have now become everyone's life partners. For today's teenagers, smart phones have become part of their lives. It may even be the beginning of a misunderstanding of their thinking. The emergence of some community chat software has also enriched their lives, but it will also produce various illegal activities and related information. Schools should correctly guide students in the reasonable use of mobile phone software. Understand the above criminal methods and learn to protect yourself.

4.2. Identification of unhealthy website information on the Internet
There are also many false information on the Internet. Even some unhealthy websites are a tempting direction for teenagers. Sometimes juvenile delinquency is influenced by information encountered on the Internet. Today's Internet can be called a virtual social environment. MLM and pornography may be released on the Internet. This is the bad information we want to teach young people to distinguish(see Table 1).

4.3. Internet-based legal knowledge learning
Schools can hold Internet-based social legal knowledge learning competitions, which can promote students' enthusiasm for learning legal education knowledge. Or schools can use computer multimedia social legal knowledge learning as a major course to help students understand common sense of law to complete legal education. Or, the teacher can inadvertently view the legal tips on the web page and help students understand when using multimedia.

Table 1. The means of transmitting the content of youth legal education based on the interpretation of various bad information from computers.

| Delivery route                      | Main way                      |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Mobile chat software                | Understand criminal methods   |
| Identification of website information | Eliminate unhealthy information |
| Internet legal studies              | Addition of the rule of law course |
| Online game                         | Reasonable guidance           |

4.4. Correctly guide students to treat games

We will find a bad phenomenon now that online games have become the chief culprit leading to juvenile crime. We cannot say that the appearance of games is wrong\(4)\). Juvenile delinquency is due to the combined influence of their own playthings and rebellious psychology. Schools must provide correct guidance to young people in online games. Help them correctly realize that legal content cannot be deviated from the Internet. The Internet is not a place to do things unscrupulously.

5. The practical significance of perfecting the juvenile legal education system under the current computer situation

5.1. The legal role of multimedia teaching

Computer-based multimedia teaching has become an important teaching method in today's school education system. In the teaching of legal content, animation produced by multimedia and some videos to prevent illegal and crime can help students understand the meaning of the rule of law from the perspective of students. Teachers can also teach the rule of law for teenagers from the indirect teaching of multimedia teaching. There is no doubt that this will be a parallel high-quality method.

5.2. Mitigating the high frequency of crimes at a younger age

my country is a country ruled by law, and we have been emphasizing the importance of law. We have been severely cracking down on illegal and criminal activities. But what makes us very sad is that today's crimes are frequently occurring at a younger age. Teenagers seem to have become a cancer of crime. This explains from the side the imperfect legal education system for students. It also illustrates the inadequacy of my country's legal system.

5.3. Warning that the Internet is not an illegal place

Nowadays, many keyboard men appear on the Internet. In their eyes, the Internet seems to be an area with no moral bottom line. In their eyes, the Internet seems to be an illegal place. It's even a place where you can do things unscrupulously and say all kinds of opinions. Maybe this kind of thinking has been deeply ingrained when they were adolescents. Therefore, in the context of computers, the practical significance of our legal education for young people is to warn that the Internet is not an illegal place. .

5.4. The lack of perfecting the rule of law education over the years

As a country under the rule of law, the education of young people in our country is lacking. We always emphasize the rule of law, but what makes us sad is that juvenile delinquency seems to have become a common phenomenon. This is to illustrate the trend of our legal education over the years. The lack of legal education in schools where illegal accidents often occur is inevitable. This is also always touching the bottom line of the law.

6. Relevant influencing factors that need to be paid attention to in the construction of youth legal education under the computer situation
6.1. Adolescents' consciousness and their fragile hearts
Today's young people have very poor consciousness, and their hearts are extremely fragile. It is precisely because of such fragile psychology that juvenile crimes occur frequently\cite{5}. Therefore, while building legal education under the computer environment, we must pay more attention to the inner growth of young people. And whether their consciousness can support them to study the legal system. This factor is subjective.

6.2. Communication of educational concepts in the general environment
The educational philosophy of every school is the same. They are full of expectations for their students, and they are full of care for their education. However, there is no trace of education in the rule of law in the educational philosophy in this general environment. Therefore, the transmission of the educational concept of the legal system is necessary. This can greatly help build a juvenile legal education system. Biologically speaking, the impact of the environment will determine the phenotype of students.

6.3. Avoidance of family factors
The impact of the family environment on students' psychology is very great. Sometimes single-parent families cause psychological rebellion among teenagers. The divorce of parents can also cause psychological barriers for teenagers. While using computer skills to construct students' legal education, we must pay attention to the students' family conditions. Provide psychological guidance in different aspects according to the family status of different students. Only in this way can we use the rule of law to save young people.

7. Conclusion
We have to be clear that the rule of law is not a hypothesis. It requires us to fully implement the legal system. Youth crime is not uncommon. We must go from the source to the root cause\cite{6}. I think that the improvement of the computer-based legal education system for young people in our country will greatly reduce the frequency of young people's crimes and the phenomenon of young people.
