INTRODUCTION

Along with the development of human life, consumer behavior also changes, especially supported by the development of technology. In line with the increasingly development of the information and communication, business also supported by technology, the competition among entrepreneurs is also increase in order to attract consumers and dominate the existing market share by using technology and information as new marketing media, one of it is by social media Instagram.

Instagram is an application about photo and video sharing that allowed the users to take photos and videos and post it to their own account with additional filters to beautify them. According to Atmoko (2012) Instagram is a photography-based social networking service. The application was launched on October 6, 2010 by Kevin Systrom and Mike Krieger which was able to get 25 thousand users on the first day. In addition, Atmoko (2012) states that the name Instagram is the short of "instant-telegram". Its a combination of two words "insta" and "gram", Instagram means the taking and viewing photos which can sent or shared with others. This digital marketing process also happen due to era revolution 4.0 which requires business to adapt and changes caused by the development of technology and information.

According to Marketing 4.0 Moving from Traditional to Digital by Philip Kotler, Hermawan Kertajaya and Iwan Setiawan (2019) that stated Marketing 4.0 is a marketing approach that combines online and offline interactions between customers and companies. Philip Kotler, Hermawan Kertajaya and Iwan Setiawan (2019) mention that consumer purchasing patterns were previously very simple, namely:

Aware - Attitude - Act - Act Again

However, now the new pattern must acknowledge the existence of connectivity between these customers so that consumer purchasing patterns are written in 5A, namely:

Aware - Appeal - Ask - Act - Advocate

With this new buying pattern, it can be said that the definition of loyalty has begun to shift. If in the past, loyal consumers were consumers who made purchases repeatedly, then in this era 4.0, loyal consumers are consumers who can recommend products to their surrounding, both online through their social media and directly to their relatives and communities.

Instagram is one of the most social media that used in marketing activities. Since its launch in 2010, Instagram is currently one of the largest social media platforms in the world with more than 500 million active users, 4.2 billion likes and 95 billion photos uploaded every day (Indah, 2019). So that in order to streamline marketing activities, marketers should know what consumers are doing with their social media related to the products that offers by a brand. Marketers can properly formulate marketing strategies through Instagram social about the content that they want to share to consumers so they can make decisions to make purchases.

Based on the description above, the author feels the need to conduct research on the Consumer Behavior of Social Media Instagram Users in the Marketing Era 4.0 Based on Customer Path 5A.

Meanwhile, according to Engel et al. (2010) consumer behavior is an action that is directly involved in obtaining, consuming, and spending products and services, including the processes that precede and follow these actions. Swastha and Handoko (2010) define consumer behavior as the action of individuals who are directly involved in obtaining and using economic goods and services including decision-making activities.
