Abstraction
Relational character education is a very important foundation in shaping behavior in delivering successful learners who will experience a different life on the education experienced by their parents and society. The challenges faced in this digital era are very complex. Due to the many violations of morality due to the low character of the students, the poor supervision of parents, parents are less concerned about the development of their children, they just resigned to what the teacher said, but the supervision of parents is very attached to realize the principle of uswatun al-Hasanah character. Besides not less important to form the character of the students to be included in the circle of boarding school. And SMP Al-Furqon is one of the first continuous education located within the boarding school environment al Furqon Driyorejo Gresik.

Introduction
A. Background of the Study Globalization era is an era that provides extraordinary opportunities and facilities for anyone who wants and able to use it, both for their own interests and all of the human interest. But not infrequently, this globalization era also has a negative impact on anyone who is not able to fortify himself with various gracious characters that result in the occurrence of deviant behavior such as moral decadence among teenagers. Nowadays moral decadence, especially among teenagers, is inevitable. All the complicated problems ensnare almost all teenagers in Indonesia, especially in urban areas. Educational institutions, which are expected to be able to direct and form a human who has good character and moral, were not able to realize these expectations. Almost all schools in this country experiencing confusion in facing the behavior of students which are getting worse. Many schools that exist in big cities whose students are expected to be role models of human beings for students in rural areas, but instead show behavior that does not reflect a characteristic human.

There are so many cases of juvenile delinquency in big cities, such as in Jakarta which recently horrend the country, ranging from student intercourse that impact on death, drug cases, even cases of immorality. Surprisingly, these cases are found in many eminent schools in urban areas. Schools, in this case focused on First Middle School (SMP) as an educational institution should be a place for the process of the formation and internalization of character values for students. But the facts that occur in the field just indicate that many educational institutions that precisely become the practice of action which is not formulated by education minister.

Survey conducted by BKKBN at the end of 2011 stated that 63% of teenagers in several big cities in Indonesia have premarital sex. The sex offenders were convinced that doing sexual intercourse once did not lead to pregnancy. Another source also mentioned that no less than 900 thousand teenagers who had an abortion due to free sex. In East Java, juvenile abortions accounted for 60% of the total cases.

From the above cases and problems, education was first highlighted by the community, especially religious education. Society considers that religious education in Indonesia has not been able to form a human with noble character. Public schools as an educational institution are considered not able to carry out religious education properly so that it causes various cases above. The public reckons that the implementation of Islamic religious education in public schools has not been able to touch the religious aspects of students in order to form students who are obedient to the rules of religion and morals in accordance with the rules of Islamic Shari’a.

This is in line with what has been revealed by Yustanto as follows: “In today's contemporary reality religious education in schools is not yet fully able to provide sufficient supplies to students, especially students at the junior high school level who are in their teens to face life's challenges. Indeed they know the science and skills are good, but their religion is still weak and easily gets influenced by negative things in the globalization era, such as juvenile delinquency, and so forth.”

Sloping views of society, as well as attitudes that tend to blame the implementation of religious education in public schools then motivate the government, in this case education ministry, to formulate new innovations in the development of education in this country. The innovation undertaken by the government was formulated in the publication of the National Education and Training Center Curriculum Implementation of Character alues Education of character formers (2011) which are the result of empirical study of curriculum center originating from religion, Pancasila, culture and National Education objectives. From the 18 values of these characters, there is one value that is considered very instrumental in shaping human beings that have a noble character of religious values. The value of this religious character includes attitudes and behaviors that adhere to the implementation of religious teachings, tolerant of the implementation of other religious worship, and live in harmony with the followers of other religions. The value of this religious character is considered as an alternative solution in overcoming various juvenile delinquency and moral degradation of teenagers above.

In contrast to the views of the public, general public schools, especially in vocational schools have not been able to shape the religious character of students so that the impact on the behavior of students who deviate from the rules of religion, AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo has different system. Although AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo is a suburb school, all male students do not show deviant behavior such as urban schools. Precisely, in this school, religious characters really manifest well, these two schools show that not all of public schools fail to carry out the internalization of the value of religious characters to their students so that the students are able to be human beings who believe, pious, and noble.
Based on the results of a preliminary survey conducted by researchers, on July 28, 2014, there are some interesting things that exist in AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo which is related to the formation of the religious character of the students. AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo is the first junior high school located in Driyorejo Gresik. Although this school is a private high school, the students' circumstances are far from abusive behaviors. As a private junior secondary school located in Gresik regency, it is in the spotlight as well as piloting other public schools in morals. This is because AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo not only taught theoretically, but also the values of religious character. It has become the practice and tradition in the school.

In the environment of SMP AL-Furqon Driyorejo, religious character is not only one of the character values that only exist in the lesson plan, but has been internalized in daily activities in the school environment. This can be seen from aspects of student worship and morals. When we viewed from the aspect of ubudiyah, at the break time at around 10:00 pm, students queue in the mushala to do sholat dhuha and at the second break at 12.30 they did sholat dhuhur together. In addition, as a public school, most of the students wear veil, and many more activities and religious behavior practiced by students of AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo in everyday life.

In addition, there is something that is not less important when viewed from the aspect of morals. It is the students of AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo who already familiar with the religious behaviors such as greet each other and say hello when meeting fellow students, always greet and shake hands with the teacher when they met. This is in accordance with the culture developed by AL-Furqon Junior High School Driyorejo that is a culture of smile, greetings, and polite.

B. Research Objectives

C. Description of Theory and Concepts
1. Character Education
Etymologically, the word “character” derive from "kharax", which means making sharp and deep making.\(^4\)

In terminology, character is interpreted as a way of thinking and behavior that is typical of each individual to live and work together within the scope of family, community, nation, and country. Character can be regarded as values of human behavior associated with God, self, and human beings. Environment and nationality embodied in thoughts, words, and deeds based on religious norms, law, etiquette, culture, customs, and aesthetics. Character is a behavior that appears in everyday life both in attitude and in acting.\(^5\)

Character is an entirely natural and stable disposition that defines an individual in his overall psychic behavioral order which makes it typical in the way of thinking and acting.\(^6\)

Some people assume that character is the same as the personality. Personality is regarded as a characteristic or style of a person that comes from the environment, such as a family in childhood, and also innate person from birth.\(^7\) Character is influenced by heredity (heredity). Behavior of a child is often not far from the behavior of his parents. Characters are also influenced by the environment. A child, who is in a good environment, tends to have good character, and vice versa. Character refers to a series of attitudes, behaviors, motivations, and skills.\(^8\)
Referring to the various notions of the characters above, then the character can be interpreted as a basic value that affects a person, both because of the influence of heredity and the environment, and manifested in attitudes and everyday behavior that sets it apart from others.

According to Zubaedi, Character education is a deliberate effort to realize goodness, that is, good human qualities objectively, not only for individual, but also good for society as a whole. Character education is interpreted as an education that develops character values in learners so that they have character value as their own character, apply those values in their life as members of citizen society which is religious, nationalist, productive, and creative.

According to David Elkind and Freddy Sweet, character education is a deliberate effort to help people understand, care about, and carry out core ethical values. While Raharjo defines character education as a holistic education process that connects the moral dimension with social aspects in the lives of learners as a foundation for the formation of a good generation that is able to live independently and have a principle of a truth that can be justified.

According Muchlas Samani and Hariyanto, character education is as follows, "Character education is a system of cultivating the values of character in the learner that includes the components of knowledge, awareness or willingness and action to implement those values, either to God, their selves, fellow, environment, and nationality to become Insan Kamil."

The definition of character education based on the curriculum center is as follows: "The character education of the nation can be interpreted as an education that develops the cultural values and character of the nation in the students so that they have values and character as their character, apply those values in their life, as members of society, and 14 religious citizens, nationalist, productive,

2. The Purpose of Character Education in School

Fuad Hasan, Indonesian Education Expert, explained that the purpose of education is derived from the transfer of cultural values and social norms (transmission of culture values and social norms). While Mardiatmadja mentions that character education as the soul of education in humanizing human beings. Therefore, the purpose of character education can be formulated to change people become better in the form of knowledge, attitude and skills.

In a broader context, character-and educatiolong-term goals. The short-term goal of character education is the cultivation of values within the student and the renewal of the common life order that respects individual freedom. Its long-term goal is to base someone on individual contextual responses which sharpen the vision of life to be achieved through the ongoing process of self-formation.

Character education also aims to improve the quality of educational processes and outcomes that lead to the formation of character and noble character of learners as a whole, integrated and balanced. It is in accordance with the competency standards of graduates in each educational unit. Through character education, students are expected to be able to independently improve and use their knowledge, review and internalize and personalize the values of character and noble character in order to embody them in everyday behavior.

Character education at the educational unit level leads to the establishment of a school or Islamic school culture that is the values that underlie behavior, traditions, daily habits, and symbols practiced by all citizens of the school or Islamic school, and the surrounding community. In a school setting, the character education goals are as follows:

a. Strengthen and develop the values of life that are considered important and necessary to form good personality.
b. Correct student behavior that is inconsistent with the values developed by the school;

c. Building a harmonious connection with family and society in doing the responsibilities of character education together\textsuperscript{19}

From the various explanations about the purpose of the implementation of character education in schools, it can be concluded that character education in schools aims to form students who not only pious personally (normative) but also pious socially manifested in everyday behavior, or form students who is able to apply dzikr, think, and good deeds in everyday life.

3. The Principles of Character Education Internalization.

Internalizing character education in schools cannot be done quickly and instantly. It must go through a series of long process. Therefore, internalizing character education in schools must pay attention to the several principles. Character Education Quality Standards recommends 11 principles to realize the effective character education as follows:

a) Promotes the basic ethical values as the basis of character

b) Identify character comprehensively including thoughts, feelings, and behaviors

c) Use a sharp, proactive, and effective approach to build the characters

d) Create a caring school community

e) Give students a chance to show good behavior

f) Have a scope for a meaningful and challenging curriculum that values all students to build their character and help them to succeed

g) Motivate the students

h) Functioning all school staff as moral communities who share responsibility for character education and loyalty to the same basic values

i) The existence of moral leadership division and broad support in building character Education initiative

j) Functioning families and community members as partners in building character

k) Evaluate school character, function of school staff as character teacher, and 20 manifestation of positive character in st

D. Research Design

The researcher used qualitative approach as the research approach since this research tried to explain the fact without requiring data in the form of numbers (quantitative). This research also tried to describe a situation along with all its aspects in order to provide clear information. Qualitative approach is describing and interpreting the data, such as the situation experience, a relationship, activity, view, attitudes that are visible, or about an ongoing process, the influences, emerging abnormalities, emerging tendencies, tapered contradictions, and so on. The implementation of qualitative research is not limited only to the collection and compilation of data, but includes the analysis and interpretation the meaning of the data.\textsuperscript{21}

The qualitative research has six characteristics: (1) concern of context; (2) natural setting; (3) human instrument; (4) descriptive data; (5) emergent design; (6) Inductive analysis.\textsuperscript{22}
