Electronic Editing

THE AMERICAN SURGEON is now using personal computers to copy edit manuscripts accepted for publication. Authors may submit electronic diskettes of the final version of their manuscripts along with the typed revised manuscript. Diskettes will be returned with the galley proofs. Please be sure that the file you send is the most recent version of the manuscript, and that it matches the printed copy that was accepted for publication. The file should contain all the parts of the manuscript in one file. Mathematics and tabular material, however, will be processed in the traditional manner and may be excluded from the diskette file.

Note: The journal does not assume responsibility for errors in conversion of customized software, newly released software, and special characters.

Please label the outside of the diskette with the journal name, the manuscript number, the senior author's name, and the name of the computer file. To ensure that your diskette is processed efficiently, provide the following information: name used to access paper on diskette; name of computer used (e.g., IBM/PS2); operating system and version (e.g., DOS 3.3); word processing program and version (e.g., WordPerfect 5.0); special characters used in the file (e.g., Greek, math symbols); manuscript number; corresponding author; telephone; FAX numbers, and e-mail address.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

From the Editor: I would like to encourage readers of THE AMERICAN SURGEON to take the time to write short letters to me about the articles contained in this journal. If you agree, or disagree, it would be helpful, and interesting, to have your thoughts about the material published in the journal. To be included in this column, letters must be signed, have concrete information about the reasons why you agree or disagree with an article, or have new information to add to the subject presented.
