Abstract
This article aims to critically explain the method of al-Tafṣīr al-Tauḥīdī by Ḥasan al-Turābī and its position amongst other thematic commentary theories. This study is a descriptive qualitative study by employing content analysis theory. The results indicate the trend of al-Tafṣīr al-Tauḥīdī in two meanings. The first is as a commentary paradigm which leans on the unity of man and the universe in the message of the God’s revelation. The second is as the form of thematic commentary of al-Waḥdah al-Mawḍū‘īyyah model. Therefore, this commentary is more appropriately categorized into al-Tafṣīr al-Muṣḥaf bi al-Waḥdah al-Mawḍū‘īyyah. It has three systematic explanation in each surah including Khulāṣah Hady al-Sūrah, Tartīl al-Ma‘āni, and Umūm al-ma‘āni. Al-Turābī’s ability to unite various related elements in his commentary is not only between verses or surahs but also between human life and all its activities with the universe in a bond of al-Qur’an guidance which is core to monotheism. This is the advantage it has and is a new method in commentary literacy in Sudan. In fact, the method of al-Tafṣīr al-Tauḥīdī generally becomes a framework for the whole civilization project of al-Turābī. However, there are some critics towards his commentary regarding rationality and rejection of several authentic hadiths which seem to leave riwāyah in the commentary of the Qur’an.

Abstrak
Artikel ini bertujuan untuk memaparkan secara kritis metode al-Tafṣīr al-Tauḥīdī karya Ḥasan al-Turābī dan posisinya di antara teori tafsir tematik lainnya. Penelitian ini bersifat deskriptif kualitatif dengan menggunakan teori analisis konten. Hasil penelitian menunjukkan trem al-Tafṣīr al-Tauḥīdī memiliki dua pengertian. Pertama, sebagai paradigma penafisiran yang berporos pada pentingnya kesatuan manusia dan alam semesta dalam pesan wahyu Tuhan. Kedua, sebagai bentuk tafsir tematik model al-Waḥdah al-Mawḍū‘īyyah. Sehingga tafsir ini lebih tepat dikategorikan dalam penyebutan al-Tafṣīr al-
Introduction

Sudan is an Africa Continent countinent, a negihbo ur state to Egypt. It located at the southtren of Cairo. These two country share some similiarites; filling the majority of Islamic Sunni community people are dominnat, flowing with the Nile, taking Arabics as official lingual Franca. There several local spoken dilect. Therefore these countries also have similar culture and tradition, however, there is shrouded in differences between the countries.¹

Historically, in past time, these similarities are exist because these countries were one government area. Both are part of the reign of ancient Egypt, British colonialism, and the reign of modern Egypt.² Sudan became its own country only on January 1, 1956. Nevertheless, inspite of these similarities geographically and culturally, Sudan's country financial economy, community services, and development progress slower than Egypt. This condition is felt by people who has lived in these two countries.³

Economic and political crises often grace the news regarding Sudan. Since the country broke away from Egypt until now. Sudan never seems to be free from turmoil. Among the peaks of the greatest turmoil that has ever occurred was the demonstration demanding the independence of the people of South Sudan in 2005. It culminated in the independence of South Sudan on July 9, 2011.⁴ But behind it all, it cannot be denied that Sudan, with its simplicity and the kindness of its people, continues to pay attention to the sector. Education, especially, related to Islamic studies. So don not be surprised if Sudan is one of the reference places to study for Indonesian students. In fact, many world-class Sudan prominent figures have inspired the development of the study of the Qur’an and Islam. This includes the development of Islamic da’wah in the country.

Among them is Mahmoud Mohammed Taha, a controversial, the modern scholars was born that in 1909 in Rufa’ah, Sudan who was sentenced to death for being considered apostates on Friday, January 18, 1985. The Second Message is among of his famous works. The next figure who was his student, Abdullah Ahmed An-Na’im, an Islamic and human rights from Sudan who lives in the United States and teaches at Emory University. Consequently, there were lineage of thought and concept between the teacher and his students, i.e. the urgency to revise the verses of Madaniyyah with Makkiiyyah which are considered contradictory one to another, particulary in terms of religious freedom thinking, gender equality, anti-slavery, and secularization.

The Sudan Scholars Muffassir are the expert in thematic Qur’anic tafsir study, Umar Yusuf Hamzah, the professor of Qur’anic study in Omdurman University and other university in Sudan, outlined his works, i.e. Ma’ālim al-Tarbiyah fi al-Qur’ān wa al-Sunnah. al-‘Ard al-Qur’ānī fi Sīrah al-Rasīr, Usus al-Da’wah Ilā Allah Ta’ālī fi al-Qur’ān, Qabas min Sīrah al-Muṣṭafā Šalla Allāh ‘Alaihi wa sallām Fi Ḍau al-Qur’ān wa al-Sunnah, and Ma’ālim al-wahdah fi Thaŋq al-Ummah al-Islāmiyyah.

The next figure, who also considered phenomenal and controversial, the key figure of Islamic Sharia Law as pubic law in Sudan, he is Syaikh Ḥasan al-Tūrābī. His success in compromising between Islam and democracy has become an inspiration for many Islamic figures in the world. Many of his works have been published to be 10 Many of Hasan al-Tūrābī’s thoughts have caused controversy among Islamic academics. Among them, related to his opinion that allows women to become imams of male congregational prayers. On the condition that the woman is knowledgeable while there is no male congregation more pious than the woman. Al-Tūrābī also rejected the descent of Isa al-Masih which he considered an illusion of the thinking of the defeated. Denies some hadiths related to flies. And allow marriage with people of the book. discussed by academics. His works are mostly related to Islamic law, Islamic politics and a little related to the study of the Qur'an.

Syaikh Hasan al-Turābī works related to the Qurʾān is al-Tafsīr al-Tawhīdī which will be the object of this research. This figure is discussed because in addition to the reasons above, Hasan al-Turābī is also an actor and practitioner of his study of the Qurʾān. He comments the works among the modernist interpretation trends which claim that the Qurʾān is open to personal interpretation. Answering various problems of modern life. Even some of the reviewers responded with scathing criticism and considered anomaly thinking.

There are several studies related to the work of Hasan al-Turābī. Generally about the renewal of ushul fiqh, Islamic law, and its influence on contemporary legal thought. As for the interpretation of asan al-Turābī, not much research has been done. Apart from that he is better known as an expert in Islamic law than a commentator, also because his works of interpretation are not widely known by academics when compared to his work in Islamic Law.

One of the most important studies related to the interpretation of Hasan al-Turābī was carried out by Ibrahim Mohammad Zen. Discusses the importance of the book al-Tafsīr al-Tawhīdī by Hasan al-Turābī as one of the doors of contemporary interpretation. The study also confirms that the interpretation of Hasan al-Turābī opens the opportunity for personal interpretation. The next research was carried out by Abdul Karim who substantially reaffirmed the position of al-Tafsīr al-Tauhīdī as a written interpretation to answer modern problems. Next is research by Muhammad Makmun Abha who criticizes the book al-Tafsīr al-Tauhīdī. Nevertheless, according to the author, some findings are less accurate regarding the data and conclusions. For example, it is related to the number of works of interpretation of al-Tafsīr al-Tauhīdī and the position of al-Tafsīr al-Tauhīdī in terms of thematic interpretation among commentators.

Further research was carried out by Ibrahim Mohamed Zain in his article entitled Al-Fan wa Qadâyâ al-Hawiyyah al-Sudâniyyah: Qirâh Tâwilîyyah Fi Manhaj al-Taﬁsîr al-Taughîdî. Zain emphasized that the theory of al-Taﬁsîr al-Taughîdî is not just a paradigm of interpretation of the Qur’ân but is a project of Hasan al-Turâbî’s thought and civilization in shaping the identity of Sudan. However, once again, this article does not specifically discuss al-Taﬁsîr al-Taughîd but tends to Hasan al-Turâbî’s thoughts in the framework of the formation of Islamic identity in Sudan. 22

Based on the above background, this article aims to critically describe the method of Hasan al-Turâbî’s al-Taﬁsîr al-Taughîd and its position among other thematic commentaries. This research is descriptive qualitative by using content analysis theory. The main data is in the form of two volumes of al-Taﬁsîr al-Taughîdî. The first volume was published by Dîr al-Sâqi, Bairut, Lebanon in 2004. And the second volume was published by Dîr al-‘Arabiah li al-‘Ulâm Nâsîyîn, Lebanon, in 2011. These two volumes are recognized in fact as works of interpretation of Hasan al-Turâbî with ignores some invalid information regarding the existence of the third volume of al-Taﬁsîr. Researchers hope that the results of this study can contribute to the development of the interpretation of the Qur’ân in the archipelago.

Hasan al-Turâbî Brief Autobiography

Hasan ‘Abdullâh al-Turâbî is an Islamic figure and activist. Has a strong influence on the Islamization of Sudan and the Islamic world.24 Born on February 1, 1932, in Kassala, North Sudan. Little Al-Turâbî received religious education from his religious family. His father was a judge and knowledgeable. Al-Turâbî completed his undergraduate education at the University of Khartoum in 1995. He obtained his Master’s degree at Oxford University in 1957. And he received his doctorate in 1964 at the Oksborn University of Paris.25

On his return from France, al-Turâb became a lecturer at the law faculty of the Khartoum University. However, in the same year, he entered politics and succeeded in becoming a member of the Sudan parliament and secretary-general of the Islamic Charter. In 1969-1977, Al-Turâbî was imprisoned due to political policies at that time. Then from 1979 to 1982 Al-Turâbî was appointed attorney general and chief advisor on legal and foreign affairs until March 1985.26

Al-Turâbî as leader of the Islamic National Front (NIF) political party, succeeded in becoming deputy prime minister and foreign minister in 1988. In 1996 he was named chairman of the Sudan national parliament. A high career flow and a position that has power second only to the president-general Umar al-Bashir. Time goes on, and his interests change as well. The understanding between al-Turābī and the president ended in 2001. Feeling the president's interests were disturbed, Al-Turāb was finally thrown into prison on charges that seemed far-fetched. Al-Turābī with great patience and self-commitment continued to serve his sentence until his death. He died in house confinement on March 5, 2016. After being rushed to the hospital due to a heart attack. His funeral was attended by thousands of mourners from all walks of life.

Hasan al-Turābī is not only known as an accomplished politician but is also known as an Islamic scientist and academic with a broad perspective. With his qualified knowledge related to turāṡ, a religious tradition, and modern sciences, as well as his mastery of four languages, namely Arabic, French, English, and German, he can produce many works during his busy schedule. Among them are Tajdīd al-Fikr al-Islāmī, al-Asyqāl al-Nāzimah Li Daulah Iskāmiyyah Muḥāshirah, Qaṣāyya al-Wāḥdah wa al-Ḥurriyyah, Tajdīd Usūl al-Fiqh, Tajdīd al-Dīn, Manhajīyyatu, al-Mustalāhī al-Siyāsīyyah fī al-Islām, al-Siyāsah wa al-Ḥukm, al-Dīn wa al-Fan, al-Ṣalāḥ Ḱīnād al-Dīn, al-ทนān wa Atharuhu fī al-Ḥayāh, al-Ḥarakah al-Islāmiyyah; al-Tāḥawwur wa al-Nahj wa al-Kasb, and al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī. Hasan al-Turābī works mostly are a response to his life's struggle with a reality in the world, mainly related to his commentary book al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī which can be said to be the peak of the intellectual and spirituality of Hasan al-Turābī.

The Cradle of Al-Tafsīr Al-Tauḥīdī

In the late 70s and early 80s, there was a fundamental change in the religious thought of Hasan al-Turābī. Apart from personal factors, the significant development of the Islamic political movement in Sudan also influenced it. The climax was when Hasan al-Turābī entered the government system which provided an opportunity to realize the Islamization project in Sudan. The project is broadly manifested in a charter called “al-Wāḥdah al-Waṭaniyyah al-lā Taʿḥīṣ al-Islām. A charter that emphasizes the need for national unity based on Islamic values. It was this charter that later gave birth to a great paradigm called al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī.”

The al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī paradigm becomes the spirit in all scientific, thought and civilization projects carried out by Hasan al-Turābī. That is a paradigm that has the aim of uniting and bringing together those who are separated and scattered in one unified message of divine monotheism. To strengthen and support project al-Tauḥīdī, Hasan al-Turābī seems to need to derive the legitimacy of his thoughts from the Qur’an, as many Islamic thinkers do its. Then came the weekly study of the Qur’an using the al-Tafsir al-Tauhid method.

The study was officially started by Hasan al-Turabi in 1994/1415 AH. At first, it was only attended by his main colleagues from interdisciplinary experts. No more between 7-10 people. Among them are experts in the field of Islamic law, Islamic studies, and scientists. The study continues to grow and attract public attention. Finally, the study was not only attended by academics, but also the general public. The depth and breadth of knowledge and the ability of al-Turabi’s oration, made the study of his interpretation get its place in academic circles. As a western graduate, al-Turabi was very open to differences of opinion and even harsh criticism. This can be seen in the dialogue method which is characteristic of the lectures of al-Tafsir al-Tauhid’s study.

According to Hasan al-Turabi’s confession, there were at least two factors that made him interested in writing al-Tafsir al-Tauhid. First, his anxiety when reading the translation of the Qur’an while still studying in the West. Where the Qur’an is presented in a partial understanding. Taken from here and there without a unified comprehensive meaning. According to Hasan al-Turabi, such an understanding was born from a lack of knowledge of the Arabic language. Such a partial understanding will certainly harm the understanding of the Qur’an. Second, the classical interpretations considered by al-Turabi have not been able to answer modern problems. Still partial, focusing on the meaning of the words and sentences of the Qur’an. So that the meaning of the Qur’an is exposed in a disjointed understanding, not in a unified whole. Besides, many of the classical interpretations are filled with israiliyat stories that can damage the understanding of the Qur’an.

In addition to the two factors above, there are other factors as mentioned by al-Turabi in the preamble of his book. Namely, there was a request from his students and colleagues for discussion regarding the need for a new reading of the Qur’an. A reading that can provide an understanding that can unite the surah in the Qur’an and its verses in a single unit despite the various themes. Able to unite the Koran with modern life and scientific progress. Unite all children of the nation, both Muslims and non-33 Israiliyat stories are stories attributed to the Children of Israel. Some of these stories can be accepted, but some are rejected. The scholars divide the story of Israel into 3 categories. First, it is accepted because the position of the history is authentic and its content does not conflict with the contents of the Qur’an and the Sunnah of Maqbullah. Second, it was rejected because the sanad is weak and contradicts the contents of the Qur’an and the Sunnah of Maqbullah. Third, neither accepted nor rejected. That is related to the story of Israel which is not rejected but there is no explanation from the Qur’an or Sunnah. Such as the detailed story of the names of ashahbul kahf, the types of animals that boarded the ship of the prophet Noah, the type of wood on the ship of the prophet Noah and others. Muslims in one bond of tolerance. And the peak can unite the reality of human life, the universe in submission only to Allah Almighty.

According al-Turābī, the Qurʾān is the book of life. Instructions for the life of all mankind, Muslim and non-Muslim. For this reason, according to Hasan al-Turābī, the chaos that occurred was the result of the separation of the instructions of the Qurʾān from human reality. There are many readers, memorizers of the Qurʾān, and readers of its interpretation. But just memorizing and reading to just get a blessing. Not to provide a life change. The essential solution is to understand the Qurʾān as one unit and practice in everyday life. Because the loss of the blessing of the Qurʾān is when people separate the reading of the Qurʾān from the practice of real life. Departing from this paradigm, al-Turābī tries through his interpretation, al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī, to present the instructions of the Qurʾān in a unified meaning that is comprehensive between the text and human life and the universe within the framework of the unity of Allah.

The Profile And Method of Al-Tafsīr Al-Tauḥīdī

Around 2004-2005, when the author was still studying Masters in Sudan, he found the book al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī already printed and sold at Dār al-Suđānīyāh li al-Kutub. Published by Dār al-Sūqī, Beirut, Lebanon in its first chapter. Includes the interpretation of surah al-Fatihah to surah al-Taubah. With a total of 944 pages. Then in 2011, the same publisher reprinted the first juz of al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī. The second chapter of 1344 pages, covering the interpretation of Surah Yunus to Surah al-Ankabut, was published in 2011 by Dār al-'Arabiyyāh li al-‘Ulūm, Beirut, Lebanon. The two juz of tafsīr were completed in decades, and most of them were written while al-Turābī was in prison.

The pinions claim that there is a third juz starting from surah al-Rum ending to surah an-Nas which has not yet been published. But such claims have not been clarified adequately according to the author's knowledge. Because other data explain that al-Turābī died before completing his commentary until 30 juz. This data confirms that al-Turābī only bequeathed two volumes of his commentary until his death.

Hasan al-Turābī in al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī, interprets the Qurʾān according to the order of the manuscripts as is generally the case with scholars. It starts with a preamble that explains his ideas about al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī and its working pattern in the interpretation of the Qurʾān. Al-Turābī with his idea of al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīdī, wants to emphasize the unity of the theme of the Qurʾān as the book of life. The various reference, ashabun nuzul, the different themes of the discussion of the Qurʾān, and its descent over a long time, according to Hasan al-Turābī, are not the reasons for the partial understanding of the Qur'an. Rather, it must be understood and presented in a unified theme that is interrelated like a string of tasbih seeds. It is hoped that the Qur'an will be able to answer the problems of modern society following the sense of risk and intelligence of its readers.

As a commentator rationalist, al-Turābī seems to put a high priority on rational ability in interpretation and rejects narrations that he considers unreasonable. This can be seen in his interpretation from beginning to end. In fact, on several occasions, he emphatically rejected several authentic hadīṣ, even though Imam al-Bukhari narrated them in their authenticity. Al-Turābī also did not want to be bound by the opinion of the commentators previous. Moreover, just repeating existing opinions. On the other hand, it is not uncommon for al-Turābī to attack these opinions. Especially related to rigid classical thoughts and taqlid. A trend of renewal was carried out by reformers of religious thought such as Rashid Riḍā and Ibn 'Ashr in his commentary.

Al-Turābī in his systematic interpretation generally divides into three groups of discussion in each letter. First; Khulāṣah Hadīy al-Sūrah (خلاصة الهدية السورة). Contains the general profile of the letter to be interpreted. Such as the explanation of the name of the surah, the primacy of the surah, Makkiyah-Madaniyah, and asbabun nuzul, the correlation of the surah with the surah before and after it. General explanation related to the core content of the surah in a unified presentation that is interrelated.

Second; Read carefully the meaning of the Qur'ān (Tartīl ma'ānī/ترتيل المعاني). Contains interpretations related to verse by verse. By revealing the content of meaning related to the interpreted verse. Among them are related to the meaning of vocabulary, qira'ah, law, opinions of scholars, the context of place, time, and social society. But still under discussion according to the needs of the verse and not long-winded. To facilitate understanding, al-Turābī grouped the verses in the language into certain interrelated groups.

Third; General meaning ('Umūm al-ma'ānī/عموم المعاني). Is a kind of summary of the explanation contained in the Tartīl ma'ānī. Contains a global explanation covering the entire meaning of the verse in a unified theme that is interrelated. By not forgetting to actualize the meaning of the verse in people's lives as an inseparable unit.

The three terms above are used by al-Turābī to group several verses which are considered to have one theme in a letter. Therefore in one letter, there can be several Tartīl ma'ānī and 'Umm al-ma'ānī. Depends on the need when interpreting the letter. However, it should be noted that in the use of these three terms, al-Turābī sometimes looks inconsistent. For example, when interpreting Surah al-Fatihah. The terms used are only Khulāṣah Hady al-Sūrah and Tartīl maʿāni without 'Umūm al-maʿāni. In fact, according to the author, it is very possible to give the general meaning of Surah al-Fatihah. In addition, al-Turābī's inconsistency is also seen when he uses the term Ḥumālāt al-ayāt to replace the term 'Umūm al-maʿāni. However, the two terms are not much different in meaning.

Hasan al-Turābī argues, that in understanding the Qurʾān, a commentator must understand the Qurʾān by the meaning of words that were popular at the time of the revelation of the Qurʾān. This is following the rules of interpretation which state that "It is obligatory to understand the word of Allah based on popular Arabic sayings, not strange, weak or evil". A commentator must also be committed to following the terms of the original sharia. Then base his interpretation on the explanation of the Prophet Muhammad, which is contained in the hadith and the history of his life with the Qurʾān. Based on the reference, asbabun nuzul, and the social life of society and the beginning of Islamic society. Notice and understand the differences between words. Both in 'urf and fiqh. It is as if al-Turābī confirmed the theory that there are no complete synonyms in the Qurʾān.

Based on the description above, it can be said that the interpretation of the Hasan al-Turābī model is something new in tafsir literacy in Sudan. Because the interpretation in Sudan at that time, in general, was still dominated by the classical tafsir method. A reality that prompted Hasan al-Turābī to give birth to his work called Al-Tafsīr Al-Tauhīḍī, as an answer to the lack of interpretation in Sudan at that time. But is it true that the interpretation method of Al-Tafsīr Al-Tauhīḍī is something new in the thematic interpretation theory? Or is it part of the thematic interpretation that has been discussed by scholars?

The Relationship Al-Tafsīr Al-Tauhīdī and Al-Maulū 'ī’

Al-Tafsīr Al-Tauhīdī by al-Turābī, as the name implies, is intended to present the interpretation of the Qur'ān as a single unit, even though it has various discussions and themes. A unity between the reading and the text, between words and words, between sentences and sentences, between verses and letters. Not only that, the unity of the Qur'ān with the reality of life and the universe is a unity that must be considered when understanding the Qur'ān.

According to al-Turābī, the Qur'ān as a book of guidance for all humans, both Muslims and non-Muslims, must be able to provide answers throughout the ages. The Qur'ān was not only revealed for a certain period but was intended for the Day of Judgment. It is a must how the Qur'ān can dialogue with the period in which it is read. So that all humans and the universe unite in one frame of evidence for the oneness of God. In other words, al-Turābī through his commentary wants to show the need for an understanding of the unity between the text of the Qur'ān, the universe, and Allah Almighty.

For the al-Turābī, al-Tauhīdī method is not merely theoretical disc. But it is an invitation from the Qur'ān which is used as a driving model in his entire life. Understanding the Qur'ān and al-Sunnah as a unit that cannot be separated. Uniting the instructions of the Qur'ān with the Sunnah. The Qur'ān is a revelation that will not dry up to be explored. And the life of the Messenger of Allah is like human life, eating, drinking. And life as a servant of God, prophet, and messenger, and leader of the people. As-Sunnah as the second source after the Qur'ān, but cannot be separated from the Qur'ān. And there is no contradiction between the Qur'ān and the Sunnah. By making the Qur'ān as the Sunnah to follow.

Al-Turābī actualizes the meaning of al-Tauhīdī in broad scope, as far as reachable. Including the meaning of monotheism in the sense of unity between the text of the Qur'ān and the universe. How the universe that God has subjected to humans, can increase their faith in Al-Turābī. For this reason, al-Turābī criticized some commentators who ignored the meaning of the natural laws contained in the universal verse. Or do not give a sufficient portion in interpreting it. They should link the revelation verses with the verses of human life and the rise of science in the interpretation of the Qur'ān.

Al-Turābī seemed to want to emphasize to all readers that the meaning of monotheism in question, is not the meaning that has been understood by most people. According to Al-Turābī, monotheism is defined as a form of unity between the Qur'ān as God’s revelation and human life. And all that exists belongs to Allah Almighty. Unite all mankind in one common goal on earth, as caliph to prosper the earth with love and peace and tolerance.

According to al-Turābī, the Qur'ānic content invites to taḥdullāh. It’s acknowledged throughout, earth, stars, water, plants, animals, and wind. With it, people know their Lord as Creator, Regulator, and Ruler.

The understanding of at-Tafsīr at-Tauḥīdi above when viewed from the existing theory still has the connection with the theory who was introduced by Muḥammad al-Ḥijāzi within al-Waḥdah al-Mauḍū‘iyyah. Where a commentator unites related verses in a particular theme that complements each other. Some scholars such as Muḥammad al-Gazali call it al-Tafsīr al-Mauḍū‘i. That is the effort of interpreting a letter as a whole, by showing the main picture or main purpose of a letter from beginning to end. In a bond of exposure that binds each other. The beginning of the letter can be seen as the beginning of the end of the letter, and the end of the letter as an explanation of the beginning of the surah. So that a letter is seen in one central theme that is mutually binding, even though the latter actually includes several diverse themes.

The thematic interpretation models emphasize efforts to present a world view or the main purpose or main point of a surah to be discussed. Or what is known as agrūḍ verse or surah.\textsuperscript{60} Then make other verses related to the surah in a correlational bond or munāṣabāt.\textsuperscript{51} For this reason, the relationship between thematic interpretation and 'science of al-munāṣabāt is very close. Especially related to the thematic per surah or known as al-Tafsīr al-Mauḍū‘i li al-Sūrah.\textsuperscript{62}

The scholars try to distinguish between the al-Wāḥdah al-Mauḍū‘iyyah and the al-Tafsīr al-Mauḍū‘i.\textsuperscript{63} Where al-Tafsīr al-Mauḍū‘i is more related to certain themes that will be discussed by an interpreter. By collecting the theme verses to be discussed. Meanwhile, al-Wāḥdah al-Mauḍū‘iyyah, in essence, is a bond munāṣabāt or a binding correlation between one verse to another verse or one surah to another in a certain theme point. In other words, al-Tafsīr al-Mauḍū‘i departs from the theme determined by the commentator who wants to be discussed.\textsuperscript{64} While al-al-Wāḥdah al-Mauḍū‘iyyah departs from the theme contained in a letter that wants to be discussed. The theme was born from the verses discussed, not from outside the manuscript.

Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that the method used by Hasan al-Turābī in his interpretation of al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīḍ in the theory of thematic interpretation, is categorized as al-Tafsīr al-Muşḥafi\textsuperscript{65} bi al-Wāḥdah al-Mauḍū‘iyyah. It is said to be al-tafsīr al-muşḥafi because the interpretation of al-Turābī is still bound by the order of verses and suras in the Qur’ān manuscripts. Starting from surah al-Fatiḥah to al-Ankabut.\textsuperscript{66} Meanwhile, it is called bi al-Wāḥdah al-Mauḍū‘iyyah, because, in the explanation of his interpretation, al-Turābī uses a pattern of uniting related verses in one particular theme of a letter being discussed.

Al-Turābī’s method of interpretation is actually not new. Many classical scholars have alluded to the importance of such an interpretation model. Even some of them have practiced the interpretation of the Qur’ān.\textsuperscript{67} In addition, the mention of al-Turābī’s interpretation as al-Tafsīr al-Tauḥīḍ is not a new thing. Long before, in 1980

\textsuperscript{65} Actually the mention of al-Muşḥafi (according to the order of the manuscripts), can also be referred to as al-Mauḍū‘i (according to the location of the order of the verses of the Qur’ān in the manuscripts) which is the opposite of the word al-Maḍū‘u’i. or ten years before the birth of al-Taḥşīr al-Tauḥīd in 1994, the tram was introduced by a reformer from Najaf, Iran, al-Sayyid Muhammad Bāqir as-Sadr. In his book Muqaddimāt fī al-Taḥşīr al-Mauḍū‘i li al-Qur‘ān, a work that is considered a pioneer in introducing al-Taḥşīr al-Mauḍū‘i. Sadr divides the model or direction of interpretation into two categories. Namely al-Taḥşīr al-Tajzi‘i and al-Taḥşīr al-Tauḥīd or al-Mauḍū‘i. Is al-Turābī inspired by this division? It is possible because al-Turābī is a reformer and modernist scientist who wants the Qur‘ān as a guide and a solution for the people. What is new and can be said to be unique and superior to al-Turābī's interpretation is his serious effort in uniting and unifying. Not only between words and words, between verse and verse, sura and sura as it has been done by the scholars of interpretation. But far from that, al-Turābī is obsessed with unifying the guidance of the verses of the Qur‘ān with real life. Uniting the text of revelation with natural phenomena.

Uniting the teachings that came down in the seventh century with the twentieth century and beyond. Uniting the vision of the Qur‘ān as a book of life with human life, Muslim and non-Muslim, Arab and non-Arab in one unit under the power of Allah Almighty. In other words, al-Turābī wanted to convey his mission through his commentary. According to him, human goodness and peace will be achieved, if they are able to unite with the Qur‘ān and the Qur‘ān to unite with them in real life. So it is not surprising to say that the Al-Taḥşīr Al-Tauḥīd method for al-Turābī is the general framework of his thinking, both in the fields of science, politics, social and civilization.

As a human work, al-Taḥşīr al-Tauḥīd, like other works of interpretation, will not be free from criticism and shortcomings. Among his shortcomings is that al-Turābī is trapped in rationalism by rejecting several authentic hadiths. It is very rare to refer to hadith if you refer only to its meaning or only indicate the final narrator. Even though al-Turābī claims that his interpretation is intended for all levels of society, in reality, the language used is difficult for those who do not know Arabics language adequately. This could be because of his influence as a philosophical and political thinker who is good at rhetoric.

Conclusion

Based on the discussion above, it can be concluded that al-Taḥşīr al-Tauḥīd as the name implies contains two meanings. First, al-Taḥḥīd as an interpretive paradigm in the sense of uniting humans and their activities as well as the universe in the guidance of the Qur‘ān which is centered on the oneness of God. Second, as a form of interpretation which operationally can be categorized as a thematic interpretation of the al-Waḥdah al-Maʿlūʿiyyah model, namely the pattern of uniting related verses in one particular theme of a discussed letter. By using three systematic descriptions in each surah. Includes Khulāṣah Hady al-Sūrah, Tartīl al-Māʿānī and Umum al-maʿānī.

Even though the application sometimes looks inconsistent.

The al-Taḥīd tram used by al-Turābī is nothing new. Much earlier, al-Ṣadr had introduced the tram under another name than al-Taḥīr al-Mauʿūlī. But what al-Taḥīdī meant by al-Turābī was not al-Mauʿūlī. But it is more accurately called al-Taḥīr al-Muṣḥaf bi al-Waḥdah al-Mauʿūlīyyah.

The peculiarity and advantages of al-Taḥīr al-Taḥīrī al-Turābī's is's the ability to unite various related elements. Not only related to the correlation between verses or surahs but in a broader scope related to the correlation of human reality and the universe with the Qurʾān. So it is no exaggeration to say that al-Taḥīr al-Taḥīrī as a paradigm of thought for the whole project of al-Turābī civilization. In addition to the advantages, there are criticisms of him regarding rationality and his rejection of several authentic hadiths, giving the impression of leaving the thusriwāyah in the interpretation of the Qurʾān.

The vision of al-Taḥīr al-Taḥīrī is to unite or unite the various elements of human life in the unity of the instructions of the Qurʾān, although there are some notes, it deserves to be appreciated. A spirit that can be actualized in a space of interpretation in Indonesia, which is rich in population diversity. A diversity similar to Sudan's conditions prompted al-Turābī to give birth to his work al-Taḥīr al-Taḥīrī. It is a civilizational project to unite the diversity of the Sudanese population in harmony with the instructions of the Qurʾān with full tolerance.
