INTRODUCTION

A child as one of the human resources and the future generation, it should get special attention from the government, in order to develop the child to achieve a strong human resources and quality. In connection with the child guidance necessary legal infrastructure to anticipate any problem that arise. Speaking of children, is very important thing for a child is a potential human fate on the day to come, and it was he who should participate in the history of the nation as well as mirror the attitude of the nation in the future (Magfur, 2003; Krisnawati, 2005; Mangku & Yuliartini, 2021).

The Law No. 23 of 2002 on child protection or Article 1(1) of Law No. 35 of 2014 on the amendment of the Act No. 23 of 2002 on the protection of children is a child is a person under 18 (eighteen) years old, including children who are still in the womb. Article 28 B (2) UUD 1945 Constitution states that every child has the right to live, grow and develop and are entitle to protection from violence and discrimination (Seokanti, 1984; Krisnawati, 2005; Krisna, 2018).

Violence is often performed in conjunction with one of the forms of crime, violence can be done by force or threat of violence carried out or what tools were used, each depending on cases that arise. Actions can be happen to anyone, whether male or female, from children to adults, especially if the violence occurs within the scope of household, often violence is called the hidden crime (crime hidden) so called because the perpetrators an victims attempted to conceal such actions from public view, sometimes also referred to domestic violence.

Violence against children is a problem that is quite complex, because it has a serious negative impact, both for the victim and his social environment. In general violence is defined as an action taken another individual to individual resulting in physical or mental disorders (Sholihah, 2018; Arliman, 2017; Hasibuan, 2019).

Some previous studies confirmed that there are several reasons children become victims of violence that is still many people do not know exactly the rights of children. So that the child is considered under the authority of the parents and can be treated according to the will of the parents. Thought there are the rights of children to know their parents. One of them is the right to be protected. The next Cause is happening in society due to various factors including education and the economy. With a low parental education, they do not fully understand their rights (Wiyono, Arofa, Wulansari, & Susanto, 2020; Aprilianda, 2017; Faridah & Afiiyani, 2019).

The impact of violence against children are most felt that the traumatic experience that stubborn in children, which can lead to other problems of physical, psychological, and social. The definition of child is and individual who has not attained the age of 18 years. Therefore, violence against children is an act that is done a person / individual to those who have not reached the age of 18 who cause physical and or mental condition impaired.

LEGAL PROTECTION AGAINST CHILDREN

Within the scope of Indonesian Dictionary, the definition of a child that can be concluded is that offspring are both, which means that from a ma and a woman giving birth, in which offspring are biologically derived from egg man then multiply in the woman uterus in the form of a woman’s womb and than in due course give birth to offspring. According Supomo in Nandang Sambas (2003: 1) a child is from infancy to childhood past, namely from birth until the age of 12 years. However, due to know theirs adolescence, then after childhood is over, a child can not be categoriezed as an adult, but rather just a teenager. In legislation, there are various descriptions about the definition of a child. According to Law
No. 35 of 2014 on the Amendment of Act Number 23 of 2002 on child Protection states that the child is a person under 18 (eighteen) years old, including an unborn child. Later in Act No. 39 of 1999 about Human Rights in Pasal 1 ayat 5 states that a child means every human being below the age of 18 (eighteen) years old and unmarried, including children who are still in the womb when it is in his interest, and it is in line white the Regional Regulation of Semarang No. 5 of 2016 on chapter 1 pasal 14, that child is a person under 18 years old, including the unborn child.

Children are the next generation of a nation, then the child also has a right that must be recognized and protected by the state. The rights of children are also part of human rights even though the child still in the womb of a mother. The following are the rights of children according to same legislation in force in Indonesia, among others:

1. Law No. 4 of 1979 on Child Welfare
2. Law No. 39 of 1999 on Human Rights
3. Act No. 35 of 2014 on the Amendment of Act No. 23 of 2002 on Child Protection.

The background of the issuance of Law No. 23 of 2002 on the protection of children is due to the State of Indonesian which encurses the well-being of each of its citizens, including the protection of children’s rights that constitute Human Rights as contained in the 1945 constitution and the UN convention on children’s rights, Law 23 of 2002 was amended by Act 35 of 2014, the reasons do chanage and renewal for Law No. 23 of 2002 has not been able to be a tool to prevent violence against children and protect children’s rights. Explanation of Law 23 of 2002 on the protection of children said although Law No. 39 on Human Rights has been included on children’s rights, implementation of the obligations and responsibilities. It is reiterated thought Law No. 35 of 2014 using the 1945 and the Convention on the Rights of the Child (Convention on the Right of the Child), which was ratified by the Indonesian government through Presidential Decree No. 36 of 1990. Through Law No. 35 of 2014, aim to provide protection against Indonesian children from all forms of discrimination and violence is emphasized. UU No. 35 of 2014 has added a definition of violence that previously did not exist in the Law No. 23 of 2002. The purpose of the law on child protection is to protect the child from all forms of physical, emotional, social, and sexual, neglect, acts of harm, exploitation, and economic (Zahra & Sularto, 2017; Nugraha, Izzaty, & Putri, 2019).

Then, what is meant by the protection of children themselves are all efforts aimed to prevent, rehabilitate and empower children who experience acts abuse, exploitation and neglect in order to ensure the survival and development of the child fairly, both physical and social (Soeady & Zulfikhair, 2014: 4). Child protection is an entire community efforts and activities in a variety of notch position and role are fully aware of the importance of children for the country in the future (Adebayo, 2020; Wangi, 2017; Octaviana, 2019). It is generally known that child protection is all the work done to create condition so that every child can exercise the rights and obligations for the development and growth of children is reasonably good physical, mental and social, including the education rights (Putri & Iswari, 2021; Sulistiyono, Arifin, Sumardiana, & Ramada, 2019).

The problem child is not a small problem, but the children are the next generation of the nation and state (Syuhada, 2020; Aji, 2019). Factors that support services to child victims of crime, it was reaffirmed by Arif Gosita are as follows:

1. The desire to expand fair treatment of children and improving the welfare of children.
2. Welfare laws to support the implementation of services to child victims of crime.
3. Means that can be used to bring services to children as crime victims (Gosita, 2014)

Therefore, an obligation for the older generation to ensure, maintain, and secure the interests of the child. Maintenance, warranty, and safeguard the interests should be done by those who nurture the family (Anggriani, 2020; Wibowo, 2020; Putri, 2019). Viewed from theory of Legal Protection, child protection is a business that held the circumstances that enable the implementation of children's as victims in accordance to Law No. 35 of 2014 contained in Article 64 (3), that children as victims get:

1. Rehabilitation of both the institution and outside the institution.
2. Safeguards and the preaching of identity through mass media to avoid labeling.
3. Provision of safety guarantees for witnesses and expert witnesses victims of physical, mental, and social.
4. Provision of accessibility to information about the development of the case (Julia, 2010: 196).
CHILDREN AS VICTIMS OF VIOLENCE

Violence is a threat or use of physical force to inflict damage on others. In connection with the violence, social learning theory explains that children learn new behaviors through observation of the models, imitate and practice into real behavior.

Violence in various forms the motif of some behaviors Indonesian culture that until now the mainstream that reduced values national identify and gives the impression of how climate solidarity humans has not been fully able to have a personality instrospective political, economic and social personality of the nations and give an impression of how climate solidarity humans has not been fully able to have a personality instrospective, politicially, economically and socially (Magfur, 2003). M Marwan and Jimmy (2009) stated that violence is nature or characterized by hard, resulting in injury or death of another person to physical damage, or goods or correcions. Violence had become familiar with the daily life of our society. Conflict resolution is always accompanied by acts of violence. The acts of violence that often occurs not only done by individuals as members of society, but also by the state.

1. Shape Forms of Violence

Violence crime in the code of penal (penal code), the settings are not united in a special chapter, but separated in a particular chapter. Violent crime in the criminal code DAPT classified as follows (Susilo, 1991).

1) Crimes against the life of another Article 338-350 of the Criminal Code

Under the Criminal Code classification forms of violence are divided into there categories as stated by Galtung (1992), namely :

a. Physical violence is the most easily recognizable, this kind of violence category is throwing, kicking, hitting/ slapping, choking, pushing, biting, banging, threatened whit sharp objects an so on. Victims of this kind of violence is usually looked directly on the physical casualties such as bruising, bleeding, fractures, fainting and other forms of the condition is more severe. Real violence that can be seen, felt by the body, untul the removal of a person's life.
b. Psychic Violence of this kind is not so easy to recognize, as a result of the perceived victim did not leave scars clearly visible to others. The impact of this violence will affect the situation of feeling unsafe and uncomfortable, the decline in self-esteem and dignity of victims, concrete manifestation of violence or violation of this type is the use of harsh words, abuse of trust, humiliate in front of others or in public, made threats with words and so on. Due to such behavior are usually the victims will feel inferior, insecure, fell worthless and weak in decision making. Violence which aims at spiritual or soul that can reduce or even eliminate the ability of normal people. Example: lies, brainwashing, threats and pressure.

c. Sexual violence in the form of mistreatment from others, activities that lead to pornography, sayings porn and prostitution involving children in the process and so forth. Included in this category are all actions that appear in the form of coercion or threatening to have sexual intercourse, to torture or cruel acts and leave, including those belonging to the age of the children. After conducting sexual relations any behavior that leads to acts of sexual abuse against children Abik at school, in the family, and the environment around the child’s residence included in the category of violence (Erdianti & Al-Fatih, 2019; Latifiani, 2019; Setiawan, Saifunuha, Kautsar, & Wulandari, 2019).

2. Violence Against Children

In terms of child abuse known to abuse. Abuse is a word usually translated into violent persecution, torture or mistreatment. In this case Richard J. Gelles defines child abuse as “Internationa act that result in physical or emotional harm to Children. The term child abuse covers a wide range of behavior, from actual physical assault by parents or other adult caretakers to neglect at a child’s basic needs” (Huraerah, 2006).

Meanwhile Barker defines violence against children is the hurt of repeated physical and emotional abuse of child dependency, via urges, corporal punishment are uncontrollable, degradation and insults permanent or sexual violence, usually done by parents or others should care for the child. (Wahid, 2001).

Marzuki Umar Sa’abah argued (child abuse) is an act against a child in a way that consciously or not resulting in disturbing the growth process of children. That can lead to physical disability, mental and even death in children (Saba’ah, 2006). Forms of Violence against Children Types of violence against children (Yanti, et.al., 2006) as follows:
