Effects of smoking and solid-fuel use on COPD, lung cancer, and tuberculosis in China: a time-based, multiple risk factor, modelling study

Webfigure 1: Standardised prevalence of active tuberculosis in China’s provinces from four nationwide surveys for tuberculosis Prevalence standardised to China’s population in 1964. The highlighted provinces and municipality are those for which prevalences are presented.